FEDERAL CONCILIATORS MOVE TO UNSNARL INCREASINGLY HEAVY TRAFFIC OF STOPPAGES

Number of Men and Women Off Their Jobs By Strikes and Forced Shutdowns Across Country Touches Around the 350,000 Mark

STRIFE AMONG LABOR-MANAGEMENT GAINING

By The Associated Press

U. S. conciliators, labor and management representatives gathered in Chicago today to tackle one of the major disputes on the national strike scene—the oil industry walkout.

Other prime developments included:

1. Secretary Schwellenbach, declaring "the time (for action) is short," told the Chicago conferees their meeting cannot fail.

2. As the nation-wide total of workers idle in strikes and shutdowns hit 350,000, the house ways and means committee shelved all legislation proposing liberalization of unemployment benefits.

3. Chrysler Corporation and CIO United Mine Workers representatives in Detroit opened the first formal negotiations of the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase in the automobile industry.

The Chicago oil strike conference provided the first major test of the Truman administration's postwar wage policy under a reorganized labor department and strengthened conciliation service.

More than 30,000 CIO oil and refinery workers are out in seven states in demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

In Washington, the ways and means committee put aside President Truman's request for liberalized unemployment benefits by a 14 to 10 vote. "The strike feature was the deciding factor" in the rejection, Rep. Knutson, of Minnesota, ranking ways and means Republican, told reporters.

Hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers were inconvenienced by the strike, called in protest over a War Labor Board ruling on wages and hours. Hotels and apartment houses were not immediately affected by the strike.

Detroit's turbulent labor situation, however, continued to share in the spotlight. Gov. Harry F. Kelly of Michigan ordered an investigation of the month-old strike of 4,500 workers at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company which precipitated layoff of 50,000 Ford Motor Company automobile employes. Some 90,000 were idle in the nation's automotive capital over labor disputes.

One of the country's biggest single walkouts occurred as 60,000 AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers left their jobs in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana in a dispute over wages. Another 2,000 in Montana awaited a call to join the walkout.

Three other strikes added 22,000 to the mounting list of idle. They included 15,000 CIO workers of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation in the Philadelphia-Camden, N. J., area. The huge yard where eight navy ships are under construction, closed, as the workers went on a sitdown, their second within a week.

The trouble stemmed from the firing of several men charged with loafing by the company. Other stoppages in the last 24 hours idled 5,000 at the Western Cartridge Company plant in East Alton, Ill., and 2,000 workers at the Simmons Company in Kenosha, Wis.

Department of labor officials in Washington watched for results at the conference in Chicago at which oil company representatives and officials of the CIO Oil Workers International Union were to meet with members of the Federal Conciliation Service.

Parley Must Not Fail Labor Secretary Says

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach told the labor-management oil conference in Chicago today that the meeting cannot be permitted to fail because "the time (for action) is short."

The secretary sent a telegram to Justice William L. Knous, of the Colorado supreme court, designated presiding officer at the conciliation conference between the CIO Oil Workers and Oil Companies whose plants are closed by strikes.

The conference provided the first major test of the Truman administration's postwar wage policy under a reorganized labor department and strengthened conciliation service. The secretary and his new conciliation chief, Edgar L. Warren, called the meeting.

The strike stemmed from the union demands for a 30 per cent increase.

Number Idle In Pennsylvania Soars To More Than 60,000

By the Associated Press

The number of strike-idle in Pennsylvania soared to more than 60,000 today with the prospect that this would be increased.

Five men were reported injured when employes attempted to cross a picket line at the Conestoga Transportation Company. In Lancaster, three men, including a union president, were held on assault charges.

Union spokesmen said that because of the trouble, a general labor holiday might be declared in Lancaster county. It would, they asserted, affect at least 12,000 AFL and 10,000 CIO workers, all of them pledged to aid the AFL-Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach employes in its fight for new contract. The bus strike has been under way since Sept. 1.

Biggest strikes in western Pennsylvania were at Westinghouse Electric Corp., and in the soft coal fields.

A federal labor concilator was assigned to the Westinghouse strike of "white collar" workers, which has made 31,612 idle at the East Pittsburgh, Sharon, Derry and Nuttall plants. At the Nuttal works, a picket line was increased forcing another 150 hourly workers to be laid off.

The Westinghouse salaried employes seek an incentive pay plan similar to that under which hourly workers are paid.

At least 35 pits were idle in the drive of mine bosses for recognition of their union—the UMWA—Affiliad United Technical, Super-

LLOYD WANER FINISHED

Pittsburgh, Sept. 25—(AP)—Outfielder Lloyd Waner has closed out an 18-year major league playing career, but he is going to stay with baseball and the Pittsburgh Pirates—as a scout.

The younger of the Waner brothers that made diamond history, Lloyd, went to his Oklahoma City home yesterday. He will scout the southwest territory for the pirates.

Vermont Professor Addresses Farm Group In Warren Today

County AAA committeemen from eleven northeastern counties of Pennsylvania attended a meeting in the court house this morning to learn the details of the government price support program and to discuss the agricultural conservation program for 1946. The principal speaker was Dr. George Dykhuisen, professor of philosophy of the University of Vermont.

In discussing the problems of agriculture and their deeper implications Dr. Dykhuisen drew a parallel to the disturbed social order of the French revolution and the slogan of the oppressed which became the battle cry of freedom loving peoples over all the earth, "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity Farmers, he said have grown up in an atmosphere of individual liberty is essential to agricultural well being. They are unmindful that industry has gone through a period of amalgamation and close integration so that chain stores, radio networks, holding companies and consolidations of steel mills, utilities and financial institutions now speak and act as a unit for business interests.

Farmers who espouse the cause of individualism overlook that labor groups have found strength in union and have found it necessary to speak not as individuals or as unions or as a trade group, but in the name and with the authority of a Congress of Industrial Organization or an American Federation. Farmers alone adhere to the plan of seeking liberty through individual liberty even though surrounded by social en-

Occupation of Japan May Last Many Years

Everybody Wants To Go Around the World

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—The U. S. Army Air Transport Command clawed out from under a pile of letters and telegrams today and telephoned The Associated Press for help.

"We can't do anything but answer phones and mail," said Capt. George Mason. "Everybody wants to go around the world, or send a letter, or get a souvenir. Could you please re-emphasize just two things about our 6¼ day round-the-world flight starting Friday, Sept. 28?

"First—it's just like the AP story said last Friday: Only a civilian certified as traveling in the national interest could go.

"Second—to stamp collectors: No first flight covers will be carried. Only military or diplomatic mail."

Hirohito Says Tojo Double-Crossed Him

New York, Sept. 25—(AP)—The New York Times in a special dispatch from Tokyo, today quoted Emperor Hirohito as saying in an interview that he had no intention of having his war rescript employed as former Premier Hideki Tojo used it when Japan launched her sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

Hirohito told The Times' Tokyo Correspondent, Frank L. Kluckhorn, that he had expected Tojo to declare war against the United States in the usual, formal manner, if necessary.

The emperor stated, Kluckhorn reported, that he was opposed to war as an instrument of policy and pledged that any social changes in Japan would be made by constitutional means. He said he would favor a constitutional monarchy like that of the British.

Kluckhorn said his interview had been authorized by both the emperor and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Describing his deception by Hirohito, the correspondent wrote:

"Dressed in a black morning coat, striped trousers and white shirt, with a stiff wing collar and a black tie, Emperor Hirohito received me standing before an ordinary chair that served as his throne in a large, rather magnificent room on the third floor of the ministry of the imperial household within the imperial palace grounds. The main palace was burned by incendiary bombs and the emperor is living in a good-sized cottage on the same grounds.

"There was no formality, however. I did not bow nor was I asked to do so. I walked straight across what was an essentially bare chamber and the emperor extended his hand, which I shook."

Kluckhorn said he was the first American to see the emperor since the war began and the first foreigner to interview him since the Japanese surrender.

Kluckhorn said he had submitted a list of written questions to the emperor and that Hirohito had the answers already prepared.

The emperor told the correspondent that food and housing were Japan's two paramount problems. Once the Japanese people have been fed and clothed, he said, it will be comparatively easy to carry out the needed reforms within Japan, which he said he thought would make for the general peace of the world.

Hirohito said that it was his earnest desire that the necessary changes in Japan would be carried out in line with the general will of the people expressed through constitutional procedure.

Discharge Plan Is Liberalized

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—The navy announced today that any enlisted man with three or more children under 18 years of age will be released at his own request.

The move, effective immediately, marked a liberalization of policy governing so-called "hardship" cases which are handled outside the point discharge system. Under such conditions, an enlisted man would be considered a "prima facia hardship case," the navy explained.

The change will not affect the point system, which gives a flat 10 point credit for dependency regardless of number of dependents.

The navy estimated at the time the point system went into effect that there were about 97,000 enlisted men in the navy with three or more children. A "sizeable percentage" of that number already have been released under the point system, however.

The new rule does not apply for officers. "Hardship" cases involving officers will continue to be considered individually.

NEW MEETING OF BIG THREE IN PROSPECT

Foreign Ministers' Council Prepares to Close Session With No Important Agreements Reached

SOLUTIONS HIT SNAG

By FLORA LEWIS

London, Sept. 25—(AP)—Belief that another meeting of President Truan, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee may be necessary to iron out Europe's major peace problems was voiced in some quarters today as the foreign ministers' council prepared to close its two weeks session with the record of important agreements precisely at zero.

Some delegates still spoke hopefully of a second session of the Big Five foreign ministers in December, but this could be arranged only if the deputies were able to worw out solutions to the many problems tossed their way by the foreign ministers.

There has been no formal mention of another session of the major powers' leaders, but the thought has been expressed by some delegates that top-level consideration might be needed to smooth the rocky path to European agreements.

These sources felt it might be necessary to include Gen. De Gaulle in such a meeting. The French here have been reported resentful of what was termed an attempt by the Russians to exclude them from consideration of certain problems—particularly the Balkan discussions.

Gen. De Gaul's object during the past year has been to obtain recognition of France as a major power. The French were just beginning to overcome the sting of being kept out of the Potsdam meeting when the Balkan treaty question arose.

The French were expected to try to force consideration of plans for western Germany before the council adjourns today, but there seems little likelihood of success in that direction.

Final conference talks were expected to be concentrated on Eu-

Forty-Five Soft Coal Mines Idle

Pittsburgh, Sept. 25—(AP)—Forty-five soft coal mines in western Pennsylvania were closed by strikes today, with 21,637 men idle and a production loss estimated by the Solid Fuels Administration at 108,896 tons.

Walkouts by supervisory employes spread to two more mines in the Altoona SFA District and ten more in the Pittsburgh-Uniontown field. The men are striking for recognition of their union—the United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employes, an affiliate of the United Mine Workers.

The SFA reported picketing in the Pittsburgh section, but said none was observed in the Altoona region.

Rank and file miners were forced into idleness by absence from the mines of supervisory employes reuired to make safety inspections and manage the pits.

Campaign In Pittsburgh Is In High Gear

Pittsburgh, Sept. 25—(AP)—The fight for mayor of Pittsburgh went into high gear today. Adherents bolted from both major parties to enliven the campaign between the banner-bearers—State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence, and Republican Robert N. Waddell.

The Democrats held their opening rally last night and presented five Republican ward leaders, including chairman of two of the biggest wards, on their speaker's platform.

These Republicans had decided to "volunteer their active support" to the Democrats, said the Democratic nominee, Lawrence.

These "bolts" came quick on the heels of the announcement by register of wills John M. Huston, who twice has tried and lost in an effort to be the Democratic candidate for mayor, that he would support the Republican candidate, Waddell.

Huston denounced the Democratic conduct of city affairs, for which he blamed Lawrence.

The Republicans who joined the Democrats are J. P. Tighe, chairman of the 19th ward; Robert L. Cook, chairman of the 14th ward; Alderman Clarence E. Clagett, seventh ward; and Curtis B. Haines and Irving Johnson, both fifth ward. All supported Republicans in the primary.

$43,000,000 Wartime Salvage Drive In State Terminating With An Outstanding Record

Harrisburg, Sept. 25—(AP)—Pennsylvania's $43,000,000 wartime salvage campaign ends this week.

During the drive, the commonwealth gathered enough waste material to fill a mythical freight train stretching from Philadelphia to Chicago.

Official records show that Pennsylvanians:

Collected enough scrap metal to fill 44,471 freight cars—that would build 56 battleships of 35,000 tons each; an aircraft carrier, a light cruiser and a destroyer.

Gathered enough waste paper to load 110,107 cars.

Washed and flattened 1,672 carloads of tin cans.

Contributed 2,379 carloads of rags.

Saved 845 carloads of fats.

Colley Baker, executive director of the Pennsylvania Salvage Committee, in announcing the totals, said today that the waste material campaign netted an average of $1,000,000 a month during the 43 months of organized salvage collection.

"The money that was paid for material collected went for things that ordinarily would come out of the pockets of the public," he said.

Under the decentralized program of conducting the campaign, each local committee arranged for collections to suit itself and also could spend the money as it wished.

They built Boy Scout cabins, furnished facilities for air raid wardens, bought smokes for servicemen, contributed to girl organizations such as the Girl Scouts, Red Cross, blind, child care, Salvation Army, infantile paralysis funds and other charitable or civic groups.

It was almost entirely a volunteer job. There were 500,000 people involved, and many of them gave their services from the start in early 1942 until the end, getting nothing out of it except a nice scroll from the state and a feel ing of satisfaction. A lot of them want to continue their work, Baker said, but the state organization must shut down officially next Sunday, Sept. 30.

Pennsylvania's drive was tied-in with the far-reaching chain of defense councils, reaching into all 67 counties, 36 cities, 772 boroughs and 231 townships.

They did so well that the Keystone State was cited a number of times by the national headquarters, Baker stated.

Pennsylvania was the only state said Baker, to setup tin can col-

Nazi Accuser Unshaken In Her Testimony

By WILLIAM FRYE

Lueneberg, Sept. 25—(AP)—Defense counsel in the Lueneberg trial attempted today to shake the testimony of Dora Szafran that she had seen Josef Kramer, commandant at Oswiecim concentration camp, beat her follow prisoners.

Maj. Thomas Winwood, one of the officers defending Kramer and 44 others charged with conspiracy to commit mass murder at Belsen and Oswiecim, asked the witness to reconcile her testimony with another statement she had made that the prisoners she recognized in the dock were "too important" to spend their time beating the inmates.

"There is no doubt about it," the witness replied. "He, Kramer, did take part in the beatings. But he had more important tasks, such as sending people to be gassed."

The witness said that in December, 1943, she saw Kramer beat a woman who had lost a shoe and had fallen out of line while a work detail was being marched out through the camp gate. Winwood questioned her memory on such details, and she replied:

"I saw so much that I cannot forget."

Maj. A. S. Munro, representing the defense, tried to shake her identification of Juana Bormann, a women SS guard, who, the witness had testified yesterday, set dogs on the prisoners. He asked the prisoner to stand in the dock.

"Yes," said the witness, "she has changed a lot, but that is the woman. The dog was almost as tall as she it."

Boy To Be Tried In Stone Slaying

Johnstown, Sept. 25—(AP)—The Cambria county juvenile court on Oct. 5 will hear the case of 9-year-old Lloyd James Edwards of South Fork, held in the stone slaying of 3-year-old Phyllis Jean Epperson of South Fork last Sept. 5.

This was decided at a conference yesterday between Common Pleas Court judges George W. Griffith and Ivan J. McKenrick and District Attorney Stephen Mayer.

Under the procedure adopted the Edwards boy, now held at Cambria county jail, will not be arraigned before an Alderman and the grand jury will not act on his case. This unusual step was taken because of the boy's extreme youth, authorities said.

Dist. Attorney Mayer said also that Dr. Catherine Wiseman, psychiatrist at Torrance State Hospital, will call at Cambria county jail, probably today, to examine the boy.

Large Size Sugar Stamps Suspended

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—Large size sugar ration stamps—forms R-1209 and R330—will be invalid after October 5.

The OPA announcing this today, said very few of these are outstanding, since smaller coupons had been issued since last April. The stamps being withdrawn were used for furlough and illness rations.

Sugar stamp 38 in ration Book Four, good for the regular household ration, is not affected by today's action.

Confirmation Puts Okay On Hard Peace

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—A hard peace for Japan had official, if indirect, okays today from both the White House and the senate.

The senate's 69 to 1 approval of Dean G. Acheson as undersecretary of state was interpreted widely on Capitol Hill as a round-about endorsement of the tough-on-Japan policy Acheson has championed.

Similarly, President Truman's clarification of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's authority was looked upon as notice to the Japanese that they will haves to obey America's orders without question.

Acheson's confirmation came after a short-lived fight by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip. Wherry sought to sidetrack the assistant secretary's promotion back to the senate foreign relations committee.

Wherry contended Acheson had rebuked MacArthur for estimating that he could get along with 200,000 troops to police Japan six months from now.

In the sometimes bitter debate that followed, however, the Nebraskan said his chief objection to Acheson was that the latter seemed to be fostering a policy for a social and economic revolution in Japan. That, Wherry said, "may take hundreds of thousands of lives before it is put down."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee jumped into the debate with the assertion that he, for one, is "will-

Plans For Nazi Invasion Of England In 1940 Are Revealed

Berlin, Sept. 25—(AP)—Documents discovered here show that the Germans were preparing in the fall of 1940 to strike at south and southeast England with 22 divisions and with 17 more divisions in resrve, it was disclosed today.

Military authorities declined to say for certain that the final operational order has been uncovered, but this seems to have been the general plan for the assult:

The initial attack was to be launched by the German Ninth and 16th armies, forming army Group A. The 16th was to sail from Ostend, Dunkerque, Calais, Boulogne and the mouth of the Somme river, and was to land on the Kentish coast between Margate and Hastings. The Ninth was to leave Dieppe, Le Havre and Caen and hit the British coast between Portsmouth and Brighton.

Airborne landings were planned north of the Romney marshes, between Folkestone and Hastings.

Army Group B, made up of the enlarged German Sixth Army, was to follow these initial thrusts by sailing from Cherbourg for Bournemouth of Weymouth Bay.

Landing forces of the two army groups were to comprise 11 infantry and two mountain divisions with a mobone force of six armored, one SS and two motorized divisions.

Reserves were to total nine infantry divisions and eight additional infantry divisions which were to be available from general headquarters reserves, the documents showed.

Timed with the assault the Germans were prepared to unveil their secret weapon, the six-barrelled Nebelwerfer mortar.

Code word for the invasion was to be "scalion."

DOMEI ABOUT TO QUIT

By the Associated Press

Tokyo, Sept. 25—(AP)—Allied occupation of Japan may last for many years—although with minimum forces participating—General MacArthur announced through an official spokesman today.

As he spoke, combat-clad veterans of Palau were dashing ashore at Aomori, expanding the ground-forces occupation to the narthermost tip of Honshu, and the navy reported 48 warships carrying 20,000 service personnel home for discharge were due to leave Pearl Harbor today.

The statement was issued in denial of a report Sept. 21 by Ted Dealey, president of the Dallas, Tex., Morning News. Dealey had written that MacArthur told him the occupation could end in six months "if we are not too ruthless and cruel."

"What he (MacArthur) said," today's statement asserted, was that occupation forces, under favorable conditions, could be reduced to minimum size in six months.

"He has stated that the occupation itself might last many years."

Stripped of special privileges by the Allied command, Domei News Agency probably will quit, its president, Imosuke Furorfo reported today. He said he had decided to recommend its dissolution to the next meeting of the board of directors. Noting that three major Tokyo dailies were considering formation of a new agency, he said "it would be impossible to make both ends meet" if Domei attempted to operate in competition.

Armed with a presidential directive making it clear that he is the highest authority in Japan, MacArthur meanwhile clamped other controls even more tightly on Ja-

General Patton To Clarify Statement

U. S. Third Army Headquarters, Bad Toelz, Germany, Sept. 25—(AP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., commanding the eastern military district in Bavaria, has been told by his superiors to "clarify" his remarks Saturday about Denazification of the Bavarian administration, which caused repercussions in the United States.

For that purpose, Patton called a formal news conference of all correspondents in this area for this afternoon.

A request to Patton for comment on the American reaction to his remarks, which included editorial protests in several newspapers brought this statement from an aide:

"The general is working on that right now. We've heard from above and we're planning to call in everybody for a clarifying statement."

Inquiry To Be Held At Pearl Harbor

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A Senate-house committee decided today to visit Pearl Harbor in its investigation of the sneak Japanese attack which plunged the United States into war.

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) said the group would go to Hawaii as soon as it has made a preliminary study of evidence already obtained by various inquiry boards.

He said hearings probably will be held there. Testimony likely will be taken from witnesses who would have difficulty in coming to Washington for hearings here, he added.

The primary objective of the trip, Barkley said, will be to familiarize committee members with the physical layout of Pearl Harbor in relation to preparations made to meet such an attack as the Japanese staged.

Only one member, Senator Brewster (R-Me) previously has visited Pearl Harbor. Barkley said all committee members would be urged to make the flying trip. Senator George (D-Ga.) previously told reporters he could not go.

Equinoctial Storm Deluges District With Heavy Rain

Autumn arrived Sunday with no disturbance, but the storm that is supposed to usually mark the equinoctial period failed to arrive until Monday evening. The storm started late Monday afternoon and seemed to grow in intensity until 11 o'clock. Brilliant electric discharges lighted the skies and heavy thunder boomed over the district. Heavy rain poured down and on many streets sewers had difficulty in carrying off the water. On Carver street the deluge forced the cover off a manhole and police had to replace it.

Two fire alarms were received during the evening, one from a car which was burning about the wiring near the East street school. The second alarm took the firemen to the C. C. Miles home, 8 Third avenue. Rain was beating through a hole made by lightning. No fire resulted and firemen patched the hole in the roof.

At Irvine a bolt of lightning hit the home of Clinton Johnson. The bolt entered from the rear of the home and tore into the sink and did considerable damage. No fire resulted although the Youngsville fire department was called.

Water on several roads over the county did some damage. At Grand Valley the culverts were unable to carry the rush of water with the result that large quantities of mud and water were on the roadway. The water subsided following the saorm, but the mud and silt made driving dangerous. One culverto at Weldbank als stopped up by debris and water was sent rushing over the road with such force that one way traffic had to be resorted to and motorists moved with care.

The Buffalo bus of the West Ridge line from Pittsburgh was late in arriving in Warren due to to road conditions and did not get into Warren until almost nine o'clock. Passengers were taken to restaurants here for breakfast. Water and debris on the roads held up the bus. The Pittsburgh papers carried on the bus were late in arriving.

Driving conditions on the road were difficult and there were many near accidents due to the driving rain and all traffic had to move slowly in order to avoid accidents.

Small streams over the county were sent rushing out of their banks and the creek and river this morning were rising and the water was muddy.

Well Known Citizen Killed In Accident

Charles Adolphson, 70, well known resident of Warren, was killed instantly last evening about 9:10 o'clock when he was struck by an automobile driven by Joe H. Wick, North Warren, while he was walking toward Warren on Route 62, about 150 feet beyond the borough limits on upper Market street in a blinding electric storm. State police and Coroner Ed Lowrey, who investigated, stated that Wick reported that he was enroute to Warren when suddenly the form of a man loomed in front of him so unexpectedly that he was unable to avoid striking him. His version of the accident was corroborated by Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, who were driving in a truck directly behind the Wick car. A certificate of death from a fractured skull accidentally received will be issued.

Mr. Adolphson before coming to Warren was a well known woods contractor in this section, being prominently identified with the business in Forest county. Later he purchased a farm in this county. Since his retirement he has been residing at 705½ Fourth avenue west.

At the time of the accident a hard storm was raging and officials have been unable to learn why Mr. Adolphson was walking on the highway at the time. He sustained a fractured skull, both legs were broken at the ankles and no doubt had internal injuries. Marks on the car show that the force of the impact was on the right side, the windshield being broken, and the right fender dented.

Removal was made to the Lutz funeral home. Mr. Adolphson is survived by the following children: Otto Adolphson, Warren; Melbourne and Russell Adolphson, Erie; Mrs. Hilma Johnson, Limestone, N. Y.; Mrs. Edith Cox, Jacksonville, Pa.; Mrs. Jennie Hutter, Buffalo, N. Y.; also six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Highway Dept. Busy With Two County Roads

Employes of the Warren County Branch of the State Highway Department are hard at work on two good sized projects which it is hoped to have completed before bad weather interferes with the construction work. The larger job is on Route 61,011 out of Tidioute over Morrison Hill. This is a five mile construction job installing a farm to market highway. One mill of the grading has been completed and is ready for the gravel top.

The other job is on Route 61,068 through old Irvindale Park. This road was rebuilt last year and it will receive a face lifting treatment of oil and limestone chips.

Another piece of wark in on the Warren-Kinzua road where water under the grade causes the road to sink almost every summer several inches. Th road has sunk onc mor from 6 to 15 inches. A gravel fill will be made and a black top put in place.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly no matter the size or location but it will increase the circulation, strengthen the weakened parts, and thereby close the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

The U. S. Navy is reported planning to blast the 32,700-ton Japanese battleship Nagato, above, with atomic bombs in an experiment that may decide the form of all navies in the future world. Four Motors Stolen Were Recovered

Four electric motors reported stolen last week from the Akeley creamery and saw mill operated by Harvey J. Randall were recovered by Deputy Sheriff Sanford Secor and State Police Officer Les Fobes at Jamestown. The motors were valuable and disappeared early this month. Report was made to the Sheriff's office but due to the work under way at the office investigation did not open until last Saturday morning.

Two juveniles one 16 and one 18 years of age had taken the motors and the boys were apprehended and confessed to where they had disposed of the motors. The officers went to Jamestown where the motors were located and all four were surrendered to the authorities. All had been sold to different persons.

The boys will be brought into juvenile court later.

Vermont Professor Addresses Farm Group

tities which disprove the favorite contention, Dr. Dykhuisen said.

In the new social order it is not necessary to agricultural welfare to think in terms of the individual farmer. The welfare of the individual independent upon the welfare of the group. The surrender of certain personal liberties are compensated for in the liberties gained for the group he represents. In this democracy we have learned that action representing the will of the majority is liberty so long as the minority maintains the right of persuading a segment of the majority in its particular point of view. In America we have learned to subordinate personal liberties to the will in the majority. Citizens have lost their individualism in a social system that is now setting up a standard for world citizenship.

World citizenship, said Dr. Dykhuisen, demands the consideration of the last word in the slogan of the French Revolution, Fraternity. We in America have usually stressed liberty and equality in our economic lives at the expense of fraternity. This is probably because our economic lives have always emphasized competition and getting the better of the other fellow in a bargain and because farmers have always led a life of independence and self reliance on their farms.

Farmers can entertain thoughts of social isolation no longer. He is surrounded by men and groups who fraternize among themselves and he must learn now to utilize the benefits of fraternity both among farmers as a group and among representatives of capital and labor organizations. There is a definite relationship between the belching chimneys of industry and the man who stands at the pay windows and the farmers who must have real meaning at home and abroad if agriculture is to take its place in a world democracy.

We are here to discuss the part that government must play in a prosperous agriculture. We have abandoned the ties that the best governed is the least governed. We are no longer individual citizens striving for a common social code. We have giant organizations striving for individual social and economic gains. Government alone can occupy the position of referee between rival groups. Government must offer the leadership td bring these groups together so as to avoid our working at cross purposes, according to Dr. Dykhuizen.

Government has a special duty to farmers. Since capital and labor are highly organized, farmers must have some form of organization procedure if they are to compete on equal terms with these others. Government can help farmers to help themselves by offering leadership which will coordinate their efforts so as to bring about fair prices and incomes to those engaged in agriculture.

Other speakers, W. Clayton Jester, chief of field operations for Pennsylvania; Clyde A. Zehner, chairman state AAA committee; Arthur G. Conover, Washington economist for northeast region; John A. Smith, state AAA secretary, Harrisburg.

Counties attending: Warren, Erie, Crawford, Forest, Mercer, Venango, McKean, Potter, Clinton, Elk, Cameron, all county AAA committees and representative farmers.

Potato Growers Plan Field Day At Edinboro October 3rd

Potato growers from a five-county district of Erie, Crawford, Forest, Venango, and Warren counties will examine results obtained in an extension 12-variety demonstration at a district potato field day the afternoon of Wednesdlay, Oct. 3 on the Wilber Billings farm at Edinboro.

With extension specialists from Pennsylvania State college leading the discussion, growers also will review a number of phases of potato production, including use of DDT and nicotine as added spray materials for insect control.

In addition the variety demonstration, prowers will have opportunity to examine another planting on the Billings farm where four applications of DDT was used in addition to bordeaux spray.

The variety demonstrations, arranged by the Erie County Agricultural Extension association of which L. H. Bull is assistant county agent, have been developed cooperatively by the agricultural extension service of State college and Mr. Billings.

The field day program will start at one p. m. Extension specialists will explain different phases of the project. They are Dr. Henry Menusan, extomologist; J. B. R. Dickey, agronomist; Dr. O. D. Burke, plant pathologist, and R. B. Donaldson, economist in charge of marketing.

Potatoes from the variety plots will be dug and placed on exhibition. The field day, Ass't County Agent Bull informs, will be the third of four regional days arranged by the agricultural extension service to give potato growers of the state the benefits of findings from variety plantings which include four scab-resistant varieties and one that is immune from ring-rot.

Final Tin Can Drive Will Cover Whole County Tomorrow

Tomorrow promises to be the final tin can drive to be held in the county and it is urged that everyone turn in every processed can that can be found in the whole county. One unusually big car has been ordered in for the shipment of the cans and Chairman Corbett said today "We have in one of the biggest cars we have ever had on the side track here and just in case we get the response we are hoping of another smaller car has been placed on the siding. Its up to Warren county to show its support of the boys in service by loading those cars to the top."

It can be done and citizens of Warren are especially appealed to in this drive to fill both cars and show Mr. Corbett that his faith in the county has not been misplaced.

When one remembers that in the salvage drives in this county since the war started that 2000 cars of salvaged materials have been shipped the mere matter of filling two cars with cans shouldn't be such a big job.

In Warren, Pleasant township, Russell and Youngsville the drive tomorrow will pick up the cans on the curbs but in the remainder of the county the schools will handle the drive. The schools have made a wonderful record during the war and tomorrow the boys and girls should make an especial effort to finish the salvage drives in a blaze of glory.

PERRY A. COLLINS
(Contributed)

Services in memory of Perry A. Collins, of Union Springs, N. Y., were held in the Russell Methodist church on Friday, September 21, when the many flowers were evidence of the high esteem in which he was held. The rites were conducted by the Rev. Green, of Bradford, assisted by the Rev. Philip Schlick, pastor of the Russell church. Mrs. Inez Gleason sang the hymn "The Haven of Rest". Interment was made in Pine Grove cemetery with George Gates, Oscar Shellin, Ward and Frank Collins, Norman English and Harold Howard as bearers.

Attending the services from away were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, Auburn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Evald Edberg, Mrs. Nord, the Rev. Gunnar Nelson, Mrs. Helen Carlson, Jamestown, N. Y.

Mr. Collins was born in Russell on January 3, 1893, a son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Collins. His death occurred September 18 after he had fallen from a moving truck. He was united in marriage in 1914 to Mabel Outrid, who died in December, 1919. To them were born two children, Elton DeForest Collins and Ila Mae Deerwester, of Union Springs. Later he married Esther Gustafson, and to them two children were born: Ruth Marie, in California, and Violet Rose, in Union Springs. Besides his wife and four children, he leaves four grandchildren; four sisters and one brother: Mrs. Emma Beebe, Warren; Mrs. Carrie Beach, North Warren; Mrs. Alberta McManus and Mrs. Lozella Wright, of Russell; Albert Collins, Pasco, Wash., with five nieces and one nephew.

In 1917 he joined the Seventh Day Adventist church, since which time his life ambition had been to pass on to others the truths of the Bible, which had become very precious to him. He was never too busy to leave his work when anyone needed help or service which he could render, and he will be greatly missed.

BUMPER CROP BRINGS PROBLEM

Alarmed by the growing surplus of food crops due to decreased purchasing power of wage earners, the State AAA Committee has called a series of conferences to discuss problems of price support and purchase program provided by congress for the protection of farmers in the post-war period. One of these meetings is being held in the court house here today, bringing together County AAA committees and representative farmers to decide on the use of government support prices for the purchase and distribution of food commodities. It is understood that the programs will protect farmers from falling prices and will affect wheat, corn, milk, poultry, potatoes, fruit and livestock.

At a meeting in Harrisburg, the State AAA committee approved a plan to divert surplus potatoes into livestock feed before cold weather destroys the portion of the crop left without proper storage facilities. At the present time southern Pennsylvania potatoes are being moved as far north as Vermont for experimental research by the Agricultural College as a substitute for corn in silos.

The sessions here today should prove very helpful to farmers of the entire area.

OVERSEAS MAIL

To mail or not to mail. That is the question bothering servicemen's families, now that it is time to send Christmas packages overseas again. But the answer is fairly simple.

If he has enough points for discharge, or if his outfit has not been slated for occupation duty, then he may well get home for Christmas. If on the other hand, he does not have enough points; or if, in spite of his points, he belongs to an outfit scheduled for occupation, it is better to send the presents.

General Eisenhower has pointed out that it will be an almost impossible task to get Christmas gifts safely to men already on the way home, because their addresses change so fast. And the shipping problem is already hard enough without adding extra ocean trips for boxes whose owners have passed them midway. But the men who have to stay for a while—and there are millions of them—will need more than ever the knowledge that friends at home haven't forgotten them.

So, watch the newspaper for troop movements, and read his letters carefully. If you're sure he'll be home, don't mail. If not, mail gifts at once.

PASTE THIS IN YOUR HAT

Writing in Newsweek, Ralph Robey states a few facts that every private citizen should paste in his hat, and this goes double for every public official having authority to spend tax dollars. Almost every day some new plant is proposed for spending a hundred million, 500 million, or a billion tax dollars of the people's money. Mr. Robey suggests that we stop and think where all of this money is coming from—certainly not from the men in the legislative bodies who propose spending it. He points to twelve years of depression after 1929 and asks the question, "Are those the years in which we accumulated the great riches we now propose to deal out so lavishly? For the nation as a whole those were years when we had to draw down, not increase our backlog of wealth.

"We have produced an incredible amount of goods. But it has been, or is in the process of being largely destroyed. A nation does not become wealthy by destroying wealth. Wherein, then, do we get the idea that we are now so rich that we no longer need to think a second time about spending a few billions here and there? The answer really is quite simple. It is to be found in the fact that we have not paid for the war as we went along."

PERFECT EXAMPLE

William Joyce, sentenced to hang for his treasonable Lord Haw Haw broadcasts from Germany, has at least given the world a concrete illustration of a familiar figure of speech: He literally talked himself to death.

It is a pleasure to join in the welcome to delegates and distinguished visitors who are in Warren today attending the 71st annual convention of the County Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Stamp News

HENRIK ARNOLD WERGELAND, Norwegian poet and prose writer, is honored by his native country with a three-stamp set commemorating the 100th anniversary of his death.

Portraying Wergeland, the stamps bear the dates 1808-1845. Their denominations and colors are 10-ore olive green; 15-o brown, and 20-o red. Wergeland's father was a member of the constitutional assembly which proclaimed the independence of Norway in 1814 and the son's early writings dealt considerably with politics. By 1840 he had established himself as a great lyric poet but was an exile from political influence. Norwegian-Americans erected a statue to his memory at Fargo, N. D., in 1908.

TWO additional Victory issues have been released. Uruguay overprinted the 75-cent value of its Pegasus airmail set with the inscription "Pictoria 1945," the figure of Liberty and a new value, 44-c, while Abyssinia overprinted a red "V" on five stamps whose designs are similar to its 1936 semi-postal set. Values are 5, 10, 25, and 50 centimes and one thaler. The Standard Catalogue, incidentally, does not recognize the 1936 semi-postal set as having been issued for postal purposes.

PHILATELIC AMERICANA: Some notes about United States stamps. . . .

The field of U. S. stamps is broad enough to frustrate any collector. Since the first stamps were issued in 1847, over 1,200 designs and denominations have been issued. And that doesn't include postage dues, stamped envelopes, revenues and the myriad other stamps collected by specialists. . . .

George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, whose portraits appeared on the first stamps, never lost their popularity with the Post Office Department. Exclusive of coil stamps, various portraits of Washington have appeared on 65 different postage stamps and Franklin's on 37 to top all rivals. . . .

Presidents' portraits are the most familiar subjects for U. S. postage stamps, but some 90 other historical characters have been memorialized on postal issues of this country. . . .

Charles A. Lindbergh is the only American to have a U. S. stamp issued in his honor while he was still alive. Even then the Post Office Department held to the tradition of not using the portrait of a living person. The 1927 air mail stamp, issued in tribute to Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic flight, shows only an airplane and his route to Europe. . . .

Unique among U. S. stamps is the 1920 Pilgrim Tercentenary commemorative issue. Either through accident or design "U. S. Postage" does not appear on any of the three stamps and there is nothing to identify them as U. S. origin! . . .

Few U. S. stamps have made as rapid a rise in value to collectors as the "Graf Zeppelin" air mail issues of 1930. On sale less than two months in 1930, the three stamps, with a face value of $4.55, issued for use on mail carried by the Graf Zeppelin on its first Europe-Pan American round trip flight, now command $60 and up in unused condition. . . .

Six widows of Presidents enjoy the privilege granted by Congress of free franking for their mail. The autograph or its facsimile is sufficient postage for the widows of Presidents Cleveland, Harrison, Theodore and Franklin Roosevelt, Wilson and Coolidge. . . .

Since 1894, purple has been the customary color for 3-cent stamps. But the Maryland Tercentenary issue of 1934 was carmine rose, the Pony Express commemorative of 1940 was henna brown, and the current armed services series is being issued in colors associated with each service instead of the traditional purple. . . .

Chapter 16

THE General, Seth and Gardner began to search the old fort. Down a few feet from the path where they found Potter, they discovered an entrance to a tunnel which ran under one of the magazine chambers. Following along this dark passageway, they finally came to a small cell where the only light sifted in through narrow slits high up on the mouldy walls. There was enough light in the cell for the men to see remnants of food on the muddy floor.

"That shows Potter had an accomplice," Gardner said, staring at the crusts of bread and scraps of meat. "He disappeared yesterday morning and some one brought him food after dark—last night."

"Some hiding place," the General ejaculated. "But when in thunder did he get that dossier over here—and how'd he do it? That dossier certainly wasn't in the hotel yesterday."

"That's right," Seth agreed quickly. "I'll bet Potter brought it over to the fort Sunday. He was probably just returning from the fort when I ran across him coming up on the Beach at three o'clock that morning."

The general waved his flashlight over the slimy walls of the ancient passageway. "I have to hand it to Potter. If everything else failed, a good swimmer could try his luck in the Atlantic until he reached another beach or a boat of some kind."

"That all seems practical, but I think he had some one else in on the deal, that he couldn't do it alone. . . ."

"And I think they quarreled," Gardner supplemented cheerfully. "Hence the shot in the back. Who ever the guy was, he saved you a lot of grief, Peabody."

"And how!"

BY the time they were back on the path again, Cobo and the doctor were ready to leave. They were going back to the morgue with the body.

"I suppose Delgado will carry on as coroner," Gardner said as the men came out on the street again.

"He will." Cobo assented quickly. "He in Miami this morning. He can fly back today. This case not take long now."

"No?" Gardner's voice showed his surprise. "How do you figure that, Chief?

"Man you saw in fort, not hard to find. Number one. Number two. Dolores Carabello killed by Potter. She find him getting dossier from trunk. He choke her. Only thing I not know—when Potter was killed."

"You're a funny fellow, Cobo. All the hard things are easy for you, and the easy thing you make difficult. The doctor will have all that settled for you in an hour. Probably he knows now, within thirty minutes, when this man was shot. That's routine for any medico."

"I want my dossier," Seth said suddenly. "Where'd you put it?"

"You come to morgue. Get it there," Cobo answered quickly. "Fingers very stiff. We not open them."

"There, you see. That answers your question, right off the bat, Cobo," the General exclaimed. He was standing by his car as Cobo went past him to signal the morgue wagon standing further down the street. "Ten hours, and you have advanced rigor mortis. A first year medical student could tell you when the man died, based on this one fact alone. You men coming with me?"

"No, thank you, General. Gardner and I are going to have some breakfast before we go down to the morgue." Seth smiled as he and the federal officer turned down White Street. His dossier was safe!

"I'll be getting out of Key West in a few hours now," he said, as the two men walked slowly back toward the hotel. "There's nothing to keep me here now, and I should have been in New York two days ago."

"I wouldn't rush things too fast if I were you," Gardner shook his head. "Cobo may be right about this case being cleared up, but I'm not at all sure of it myself."

"Why not? What's wrong with his outline of what happened?"

"Just this. Suppose for the sake of the argument we say that Potter did steal the dossier, but Dolores brought it to him—that he didn't take it from the trunk himself."

Seth whistled softly under his breath. "I never thought of that. Go on, what happens then?"

"Well, this may be cockeyed, but suppose Dolores hid the dossier under her bridal bouquet and took it downstairs to Potter—all of this having been arranged beforehand between them. Remember, Dolores was one of four people who knew where that trunk key was. . . ."

Seth nodded. "That's right. Proceed. You interest me very, very much, my friend."

"Okay. Dolores, as we said, gives the dossier to Potter, and promptly asks him for more money. Maybe she had been paid already for the job, but now that she has the dossier in her hand, she wants more—girls often do!

"There was little time for argument, Dolores' wedding march was already playing. So Potter told her that he would bring more money up to the room after the fashion show was over. This he did." Gardner stopped suddenly, looked at Seth thoughtfully, then deliberately lighted a cigarette. He held the match for a long moment, before he threw it away.

"But Gardner," Seth exclaimed impatiently. "If that's all true, who in Heaven's name killed Dolores?"

"I don't know—but Potter did."

"You mean Potter killed her?"

"Oh, no. Potter knew who killed her. He saw the murderer when he went to the room after the fashion show to give Dolores the extra money. That's why he was shot last night."

SOCIETY NEWS

Director Ann Hyatt Announces Cast For Opening Production of Players

Announcement of the cast for the October 11 and 12 presentation of "Over 21" serves notice of a probable hit in The Warren Players' initial production of the 1945-46 season.

Edith Pearlman, whose war-duration return to Warren has profited both the Players and her many friends here, and Charles Sellin, who gave such a delightful portrayal of the ubiquitous Mr. Jordan in "Heaven Can Wait", play the leads as Paula and Max Wharton in "Over 21".

Newcomers to the Players' stage are Jeanne McGarry, Jack Carrick, and Meredith Jones, all of whom respective roles as Jan and Roy Lupton and Miss Manley.

Virginia Billstone is another happy re-discovery, as Mrs. Foley, the wife of Colonel (George Cunningham) Foley. Art Langdon is identified succinctly as an Elderly Gent, and their usual professional performance may be expected of Fred Plummer as Robert Gow, Milliteen Kopp as Mrs. Gates, and Monty McClure as Joel I. Nixon.

All of which supports Director Ann Hyatt's claim that she has a deluxe and hard working cast. Director Hyatt, for that matter, is no small part of the drawing power which is expected to fill the auditorium on the nights of the play. Theatre goers, at the end of a year's judgment, still class last season's "Our Town", produced under Mrs. Hyatt's direction, as perhaps the most memorable play in the Players' history.

Primary assistants to Mrs. Hyatt in the behind-scenes preparations for "Over 21" are Helen Morrow in the thankless task of program adviser and Joe Acks, in charge of set. Mr. Acks is conservatively classified as an Einsteinian genius by his fellow workers as they look with awe on the realistic refrigerator he manufactured out of thin beaverboard.

"Over 21" is strictly comedy, designed to open the Players' season with an evening of laughter and pleasure. Details of the box office opening will be announced later in the week.

In the meantime, old and new patrons of the Players are reminded that the only sure way to secure seat reservations for the October 11 and 12 performance is to secure season memberships now. Applications can still be mailed to The Warren Players at Box 563, or completed by calling Astrid Cowden at 2386 or Monty McClure at 725-W.

Rebekahs Will Be Hostesses To Grand Lodge

Lady Warren Rebekah Lodge members enjoyed a fine entertainment Friday evening in celebration of the 94th anniversary of the founding of the Rebekah Lodge.

Jennie Clark presented a very interesting paper on the origin and activities of the lodge, Claude King showed some scenic movies of several states, most beautiful of which was Pennsylvania in fall colors, and several popular selections were sung by the group. Concluding, the social committee served refreshments.

On Friday of this week, the Rebekahs will have their regular six o'clock supper and 7:30 lodge meeting. New officers will be voted on and the degree staff will practice. All team members are asked to be present or to call Emma Pepperman, captain.

Preparations are being made to entertain Grand Lodge officers here on October 12, and the Noble Grand asks all officers to be in attendance to work out details.

Cordial Invitation to YW Wednesday

The Y. W. C. A. membership committee again extends an invitation to all Warren women to attend the annual "Membership Enrollment Day." The date is Wednesday, September 26, the time 3:30 to 5:30 or 7:00 to 9:00 and the place the Y. W. C. A. activities building. Both members and nonmembers of the Y. W. C. A. are urged to come and make the acquaintance of the personnel of the "Y" as well as the program features.

The committee requests that all who cannot come in on Enrollment Day to take care of their membership, do so by mail. One of the purposes of Enrollment Day is to assist the membership committee in the annual enrollment and to save personal calls by the committee members. All memberships that are so takenu care of this week will be greatly appreciated as the committee will endeavor to complete the enrollment next week.

Are Wed In Tunisia

One of the first men to enter the city of Tunis after it fell to the Allies in May, 1943, will be coming home soon, bringing with him the American girl he married September 1st in Tunis Cathedral. S/Sgt. Joseph H. A. Scalise, Jr., of Warren, and Miss Anny Conticello, Tunisian-born American citizen, were married in the stately cathedral on Avenue Jules Ferry. Thirty-five guests attended the noon luncheon reception held at Dar Naouar, and later in the evening a large reception at Hotel de France. The sergeant and his bride left afterward for Hammamet, where they planned to spend their honeymoon. Born in 1926, Anny Marie Conticello left Tunis at the age of six months to live in America with her parents. They resided in New York until her fifth year, when they returned to Tunis. She and Sgt. Scalise became acquainted almost a year ago when they were working in the same office at El Aouina Airport. They were engaged in May of this year. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Conticello, who live at 11 Rue D'Eglise in the Tunis Kasbah.

Sgt. Scalise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. A. Scalise, 413 Taft Place, entered the army in February, 1941, at Indiantown Gap. During his two years of duty in the United States he was an infantryman and took part in Virginia, Carolina and Louisiana maneuvers of 1941 and 1942.

The 26-year-old sergeant repeatedly turned down transfers, according to a special dispatch from the Air Transport Command Base at Tunis, and managed to remain there until permission for the wedding was granted by military authorities. He has visited most of the cities and towns in that region and, although he experienced a number of German bombings, was never injured. He has been in the Tunis and Bizerte area since May, 1943.

Ermina Lorenz And Robert McCoy Are United In Marriage

At nine o'clock Saturday morning in St. Joseph's church, Father Arthur Leon celebrated the nuptial high mass and read the service which united in marriage Ermina Lorenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lorenz, 608 Fourth avenue, and Robert McCoy, aviation machinist's mate, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McCoy, 610 Fourth avenue.

The church was beautifully decorated in gladioli and dahlias in fall shades. Kathleen Simmons was at the organ for the traditional numbers and as accompanist for Josephine Lucia, who sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother".

The bride wore a suit of dove gray, with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Lena Font, wore a suit of honor blue, with black accessories and pink corsage. Paul McCoy, honorably discharged from the United States Navy on September 12, was his brother's best man. The bride's mother chose navy blue, with tea roses for her corsage, and Mrs. McCoy wore Talisman roses with a gray ensemble.

A reception for thirty guests followed immediately at the Lorenz home. There were ten places at the bride's table, which was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake of heart shape, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom in navy blue. Other guests were seated at small tables. Glads and dahlias were repeated in the home decorations, along with asters and daisies.

Guests included Mrs. Frances Kronenwetter and son, Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dieterman, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hoffman and family, Mrs. Anna Boschert and son, John, all of St. Marys.

Mr. and Mrs. McCoy left later for a wedding trip to Buffalo and Canadian points. The bride, graduate of the local high school in the Class of 1939, is employed by Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and Mr. McCoy, high school graduate with the Class of 1938, was employed by Thomas Coupling before entering the navy three and one-half years ago. He is now on leave from the South Pacific and will report to New York for his next assignment.

STONE CLASS OPENS NEW SEASON

The cottage of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Flick, Jr., was the scene of the first fall meeting of the May R. Stone Class of the Presbyterian Sunday school. About 25 members of the class met there Monday evening, with Mrs. Stone, for a tureen dinner. Arrangements were made by the following efficient committee: Mrs. Fred L. Plummer, Mrs. Warren M. Following the delicious dinner, Mrs. Marian Keiser presided for a short business meeting. It was voted not to have a rummage sale this fall. Mrs. Victor H. Offerle invited the class to held its October meeting at her home on Jackson Run road on October 15 and it was decided to have a tureen dinner, followed by a "white elephant" sale. Members are to bring one or more unwrapped articles, in good condition, which may be sold. Mrs. Perry McDannell will be chairman of the October committee. After the meeting had been adjourned, members expressed their gratitude to Mrs. Syone for her gracious hospitality.

Members were asked to make a special effort to attend the regular 10:45 a. m. meeting of the class on Rally Sunday, September 30.

THE STORY OF THE ATOM - - - - - No. 16: A New Weapon of War Is Used

(1) Skies were clear over Hiroshima when a superfortress dropped the first atomic bomb in warfare, banked for a 270-degree turn and flew away. Smoke, dust, and debris from the explosion rose 40,000 feet. The Japanese said the glare of the explosion lasted 10 minutes. The blast knocked out approximately 30 bridges and flattened houses for 10 miles around. So far more than 60,000 deaths have occurred as a result.

(2) Another bomb was dropped on the Naval base at Nagasaki, and superfortresses were ready with others when Japan surrendered. Material and equipment for the bombs had been sent to the Marianas by fast cruisers. Discovery of TNT-loaded balloons probably from Japanese in submarines in Washington state where one of the bomb factories was located, gave rise to the speculation that the Japanese may have heard about the atomic bomb before the Hiroshima attack.

(3) When the story of the atomic bomb was released, Prof. H. D. Smyth, of Princeton, wrote in a War Department report that "a weapon has been developed that is potentially destructive beyond the wildest nightmare of the imagination. It is so ideally suited to sudden unannounced attack that a country's major cities might be destroyed overnight by an ostensibly friendly power. The weapon has not been created by the devilish inspiration of some genius, but by the arduous labors of thousands of normal men and women working for the safety of their country." Our government hopes it will be used only for peaceful pursuits and to prevent war in the future.

(4) Scientists were fearful atomic bombs might leave dangerous radioactivity in the soil to cause injuries such as X-rays and radium burns. The Japanese reported workmen arriving to clear away debris from Hiroshima two weeks after the bombing, had suffered a change in their blood cells, according to microscope tests. A War Department statement said that "the bomb is detonated in combat at such a height above the ground, as to give the maximum blast against structures, and to disseminate the radioactive products as a cloud."

THE FARMER NEEDS YOUR HELP

the HANDWRITING ON THE WORLD

The atomic bomb did more than bring the war to an abrupt conclusion. It closed all previous history; closed, and sealed it off forever. It decisively wrote "Finis" to the millenia of man's bitter, toiling, struggling, progress toward the stars.

It said, without mincing words: "This must be One World—or No World." That is the atomic Handwriting on the World.

Will humanity be wise enough, strong enough, charitable enough, to meet that fearful challenge? Faced with the destruction of matter on a scale never before envisioned, with destruction which could engulf like a tornado the whole of man's earthly activities; will we be willing to put aside our nationalisms, our self-absorptions, our insularities? Will we be able to accept the Golden Rule as a practical necessity? A necessity whose alternate is race suicide?

There is a dramatic appropriateness in the National War Fund Campaign, following so closely upon the heels of the Japanese surrender. It is as if Providence were giving the world, and particularly America, the most powerful nation, its first chance to show whether it is worthy of survival. No other single cause could so quickly and emphatically prove whether we Americans are indeed willing to accept the idea of One World —or No World. The National War Fund reaches into every theatre of war where our boys are still waiting; into the defeated nations and their satellites; into the ravaged countries where hunger is life's condition.

Wise observers will await with intense anxiety the outcome of this great campaign of altruism; for that outcome may well be a weather-vane to show which way the winds of the future are blowing.

The National War Fund, too, is—

"The Handwriting on the World."

Information, Please

The Warren County War Fund Campaign begins October 15 and ends October 22.

The goal is $88,700; the same as in 1944 and 1943.

Of this total. $49,700 remains in the County; $39,000 goes to the National War Fund.

$64,682 is the quota assigned to Warren Borough. $24,018 is to be raised in the County outside Warren Borough.

In other words, for every dollar raised by the County outside the Borough, six dollars must be raised inside the Borough, as figured on a per capita basis.

Not a cent of the money collected in the County outside Warren Borough goes for the support of any agency functioning within the Borough. Money collected outside the Borough is used for work outside the Borough and a proportionate share of the campaign expenses.

The War Fund provides for the eight local welfare agencies formerly included in the Community Chest, including: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Warren Relief, Visiting Nurses, Salvation Army, Children's Aid Society.

"How much should I give?" In answer to that question, figure out the equivalent of ten hours' pay. That is a reasonable donation.

Benton Hurls Today Against Boudreaumen

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Presidents Will Harridge of the American League and Ford Frick of the National League might well devote some time today to the possibility of a pennant tie as the top contenders enter the final nerve-gnawing six days of the regular season.

It's never happened before and probably won't this time but if Detroit loses three of its last four and the St. Louis Cardinals sweep two more from Chicago there will be confusion aplenty.

Best chance for a deadlock is in the American where Washington has finished its schedule and has nothing more to do than wait and pray for the Tigers to get knocked over by Cleveland and St. Louis.

Steve O'Neill has a chance to be sure of at least a tie by beating Cleveland today in the opener of a two-game set and he has nominated Al Benton, the ex-sailor, to do the job. If the big fellow wins, it will be Hal Newhouser tomorrow to apply for the clincher.

The Cub-Cardinal two-day series opening at Wrigley Field today is loaded with possibilities. Beaten 15 times in 20 starts by Billy Southworth's gang, the Cubs now are only a game and a half ahead of St. Louis.

Hank Borowy, the ex-Kankee, who twice in the last month defeated St. Louis in 10 innings, each time by a 4-1 score, will pitch for the Cubs today. He will be opposed by Harry Brecheen, who has won his last six straight, including three over the Cubs, two by shutouts.

Dragon 2nds Beat Bradford Junior Varsity

Warren High's second squad annexed its first actual victory of the season last night, edging the Bradford Red and Black second eleven, 14-13, in a see-saw battle at bradford.

The Blue and Whiters were forced to the limit in the second half, entering the third stanza on the short end of a 13-0 count. A pass from Elmer Dutchess to Don White, followed by Ed Leonard's extra point lunge, slashed the Bradford lead to 13-7 in the third, and the Dragon's second score, another heave from Dutchess to Chuck Sherman, tied it all up at 13 apiece. Leonard put the game on ice when he plunged for a point a second time, giving the locals a 14-13 victory.

The Dragon's Beaty squad, coached by Harry Hutchings, pushed over the Sheffield seconds at Sheffield last night, 12-7. Madigan scored the initial tally on a pass and Brumagim went over for the second and winning touchdown. Lineups:

Nat Protest Is Rejected By Will Harridge

By BUS HAM

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Clark Griffith thinks something ought to be done about major league baseball players who turn umpire.

Maybe, says the owner of the Washington Senators, they ought to switch leagues, along with their jobs.

Griffith yesterday protested a decision by Umpire Eddie Rommel in the Senator's costly 4-3, 12-inning loss to Philadelphia in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader.

President Will Harridge of the American League turned down the protest. It involved chiefly a rule on what constitutes a legal catch of a fly ball.

Buddy Lewis, Washington outfielder, apparently caught a fly in the eighth inning but dropped the ball as he started to toss it to Second Baseman George Myatt. Rommel ruled it "no catch." The Athletics scored three runs in that inning to tie and won out in the 12th.

"Rommel is an old Philadelphia pitcher," Griffith told a reporter today.

"When our manager, Ossie Bluege, asked him why he didn't take the "A" (for Athletics) off his uniform, Rommel couldn't take it. (Griffith didn't say what good a late season victory would do a team as deep in the cellar as the A's.)

"Umpires are becoming more and more sensative, not only to what the managers say but also the fans.

"Maybe one of the answers is for former American League players to officiate in the National League, and vice versa."

POOL DRIVE GETS GOOD START IN EMPORIUM

Emporium, Sept. 25.—Sparked by a $1,000 contribution from the Emporium Moose Lodge and a donation of $100 from H. A. Regelman of Tucson, Ariz., former Emporium pharmacist, the community swimming pool drive got under way here yesterday. The Rotary Club, which made the initial donation of $500 last week, is sponsoring the project.

Local industries, it was said, will raise half the quota, provided the community as a whole raises the other half. The present drive is being confined to business and industrial leaders. A community-wide campaign will be launched next spring.

ACCUSED

I've been accused of being a "Yes Man" . . . and come to think of it—I am! That is, I like to say "Yes" when people ask for a loan. Which is only logical, after all, for the more times I say "Yes" the more loans I make. And since making Personal Loans is my full-time business, that's mighty important to me.

*Usually I can say "Yes" in a hurry. But even when circumstances are unusual, I try to find a way to work out a deal. That's why Personal is so often able to make loans that others cannot.

*Of course—once in a while I can't find a way. That's natural. When that happens, I personally sit down with the customer in a private office and discuss the situation frankly, on a common sense basis.

Like most people, I don't believe in unnecessary borrowing . . . but when a loan is needed or to your advantage, I'll be glad to say "Yes". Anytime you need extra cash—see me, won't you? Right now, for instance. See me at Personal Finance Co., 216 Liberty St., second floor, over Lester Shoe Store. Phone 285.

Latest decrees forbade making arms, ammunition and aircraft, promised priorities necessary for production of food, clothing and houses, required careful reporting of virtually every large-scale financial transaction, unshackled the Japanese press, and spurred democratic education.

Emperor Hirohito, who, well-informed Japanese say, soon will call upon MacArthur in person, offered no answers to questions asking the extent of his prior knowledge of Pearl Harbor plans and his own specific role in the war's beginning.

Military authorities continued their round-up of suspected war criminals and reported today that Nobuyuki Abe, Japanese ex-governor general of Korea, has been permitted to remain under guard in his Tokyo home due to illness. He will be removed to jail upon recovery, officers said, to await questioning or trial as one of the men on MacArthur's "wanted" list.

Associated Press Correspondent Duane Hennessy reported from Aomori that the 81st Infantry Division was the first to claim that charred town. Green-clad soldiers with bayonets fixed and backed by silently ready machine guns and mortars, splashed through the surf to the land.

There wasn't any shooting. A lone, grinning Japanese, middle-aged and packing a raincoat under his arm, stood waiting. On his other arm was a band that said "interpreter."

He stared at the troops and the troops stared at him as they jogged past.

Destroyers and cruisers and swooping planes were on hand to make certain that there was no trickery.

From two landing spots, the infantry turned away from Aomori where they established camps. The out into the surrounding country, town had been levelled by a pre-surrender B-29 fire raid.

Hennesy said Aomori was the same old story of impoverished people, living in crude shacks of rusted, salvaged tin.

RAIN WASHES OUT TIGER-INDIAN GAME

Detroit, Sept. 25—(AP)—Rain washed out today's important baseball game between the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians seting up a double header tomorrow that could decide the American League pennant.

If tomorrow's doubleheader is rained out the Tigers would automatically win the pennant even if they lost their last two games with the St. Louis Browns. In that case the final percentage would be Detroit .566 and Washington .565.

Big Al Benton was ready to go today against Cleveland and would presumably be called on again tomorrow.

Fall Session Of Lutherans Of Interest

When the fall convention of the Northeast Conference, United Lutheran Church's Pittsburgh Synod, met in Emanuel Lutheran church in Emlenton, Rev. Raymond Lauffenburger, of Ridgway, formerly of Warren, was elected treasurer, and Rev. Paul J. Trout, of Shannondale, was named to the presidency. Rev. Trout also had the privilege of preaching the convention sermon.

Other speakers included Dr. Oscar W. Carlson, director of evangelism; Dr. H. Reed Shepfer, president of the Pittsburgh Synod; Rev. Philip W. Seiberling, director of Lutheran World Action for the synod; Rev. Donald D. Houser, newly elected missionary superintendent of the synod; Rev. Stewart Proper, superintendent of the Zelienople Orphans' Home; Miss Mary L. Gruber, representing the Women's Missionary Society; Dr. William F. Zimmerman, president of Thiel College in Greenville, and Rev. Lauffenburger.

Dr. Shepfer made special mention of an ordination service to be held in Pittsburgh on November 8 and stated the spring convention of the Northeast Conference would be held at the Old People's Home at Zelienople. In his talk, Rev. Lauffenburger told of progress made in establishment of a leadership training camp.

In conjunction with the conference, the Brotherhood group held its convention and banquet, accepting the invitation to hold the spring meeting in St. Joseph's Lutheran church in Ringold, and appointing James Swartz, of Sligo, as secretary of literature. Dr. Carlson was the guest speaker for the program which followed the business session.

"Well, Mom and Dad, another great event was entered in the pages of history, the day before yesterday, here at Tokyo Bay. You possibly heard a good deal about the signing of the surrender terms as it was being broadcasted from the Missouri. It all took place just about two thousand yards from our starboard side, as the Missouri is anchored there and the Iowa about a thousand yards on the other side. On our port side at about five hundred yards are anchored the British Battlewagons, the King George II and the Duke of York. We saw a destroyer bring General MacArthur and Japanese officers over to the Missouri. At the same time overhead, we saw one of the greatest displays of air power ever witnessed by anyone. There were hundreds of B-29s, and most fifteen hundred carrier planes from the third fleet. It was really a great sight. I wish that you could have seen it. I am sure that the Japanese were thankful they were not loaded with bombs. At the same time that this was going on, I was headed toward the beach to the Yokosuka Naval Base with a new propellor, in one of our motor boats, which I was taking over to put on one of the fighter planes over there. I spent the day at the Yokosuka Naval Base, looking over the place and picked up a few souvenirs off of some of their aircraft engines. On the way over, we passed close to the battleship Nogota, which had been damaged by our planes. We also passed three of their large nubmarines which were taken over by American crews. At the naval base, I saw many one-man Jap submarines, suicide boats, quite a number of Jap planes of all types, and a number of other things. I also saw a few Japs there. I went through their barracks and buildings which are quite old and dilapidated. I ate dinner in the administration building, and in the next room from where General Sherman, Capt. Duckworth and a number of high ranking naval officers were eating. I ate K rations and they were eating warmed up C rations.

I have found that the Japanese people in most respects are from ten to fifteen years behind times, just as I had always thought. I was real glad to have had the opportunity to make the trip ashore. The plan for the CASU from our ships had been called off. I had the privilege and honor of changing the first propellor on an American aircraft on the Island of Japan! They took my picture while I was working at it, so I am going to try and get a couple prints of it. The Jap soldiers bowed and saluted every time they saw us. I enjoyed the trip a great deal.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pittock and son, Garry, motored to Erie, Saturday, where they spent the week end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Young. Mrs. W. H. Brandt accompanied them as far as Youngsville, where she visited her sister, Mrs. Haupin. On their return to Barnes Sunday afternoon, both Mrs. Brandt and Mrs. Haupin accompanied them from Youngsville.

Public Opinion Surveys Prove

Women Everywhere Prefer to

Cook with Gas

and here's why

More women cook with Gas than with any other fuel, in the United States. In certain areas, 99% of all housewives who have a choice of fuels prefer Gas. Why is Gas the favorite source of heat for cooking? Here are some of the reasons women give:

1. Gas is economical.

In many instances, for example, an average family can cook a month's meals with Gas, for about one dollar. What other service can match such economy?

2. Gas is more efficient.

Women find the modern Gas range cooks food faster, more easily, than any other type of cooking appliance. They get instant, maximum heat the minute the range is turned on, and with the insulated Gas range, the heat is confined to the food—kitchens are cooler.

3. Dependability

of Gas is appreciated by women. Gas is there when they want it—no embarrassing interruptions at critical moments during cooking. There are no expensive parts to burn out or wear out, on the Gas range.

4. Automatic control of Gas—providing just the temperature called for by the recipe. Gas is the most precisely controllable of all fuels, a fact that appeals to women with busy households. They can set the Gas range at the desired heat and go off to other tasks, knowing it will never vary.

5. Cleanliness

of Gas, that makes for cleaner cooking and ease in keeping the range bright and sparkling, is another reason women choose the Gas range over others.

6. Modernity

in the beautifully designed Gas ranges of today appeals to the American woman who always likes nice things. "Charming and efficient" sums up her judgment of the modern Gas kitchen.

You, too, will agree with all of these opinions when you have your New Freedom Gas Kitchen. To be sure you have it as early as possible, consult your Gas Appliance Dealer now, or your Gas Company.

Says Millions of People Only Half Alive

A man now in Los Angeles, but formerly a world-renowned traveler and geographer, honored by leading geographical societies, reveals the story of a remarkable method that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

This man tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields.

He claims that millions of people are only half alive, that the drive which gives vitality and strength to their efforts, and which makes life a joy and a triumph, is too often missing. He offers to send his amazing 9,000 word treatise—which reveals many startling results—to readers of this paper free of cost or obligation. FEDERAL CONCILIATORS MOVE TO UNSNARL INCREASINGLY HEAVY TRAFFIC OF STOPPAGES

Number of Men and Women Off Their Jobs By Strikes and Forced Shutdowns Across Country Touches Around the 350,000 Mark

STRIFE AMONG LABOR-MANAGEMENT GAINING

By The Associated Press

U. S. conciliators, labor and management representatives gathered in Chicago today to tackle one of the major disputes on the national strike scene—the oil industry walkout.

Other prime developments included:

1. Secretary Schwellenbach, declaring "the time (for action) is short," told the Chicago conferees their meeting cannot fail.

2. As the nation-wide total of workers idle in strikes and shutdowns hit 350,000, the house ways and means committee shelved all legislation proposing liberalization of unemployment benefits.

3. Chrysler Corporation and CIO United Mine Workers representatives in Detroit opened the first formal negotiations of the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase in the automobile industry.

The Chicago oil strike conference provided the first major test of the Truman administration's postwar wage policy under a reorganized labor department and strengthened conciliation service.

More than 30,000 CIO oil and refinery workers are out in seven states in demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

In Washington, the ways and means committee put aside President Truman's request for liberalized unemployment benefits by a 14 to 10 vote. "The strike feature was the deciding factor" in the rejection, Rep. Knutson, of Minnesota, ranking ways and means Republican, told reporters.

Hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers were inconvenienced by the strike, called in protest over a War Labor Board ruling on wages and hours. Hotels and apartment houses were not immediately affected by the strike.

Detroit's turbulent labor situation, however, continued to share in the spotlight. Gov. Harry F. Kelly of Michigan ordered an investigation of the month-old strike of 4,500 workers at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company which precipitated layoff of 50,000 Ford Motor Company automobile employes. Some 90,000 were idle in the nation's automotive capital over labor disputes.

One of the country's biggest single walkouts occurred as 60,000 AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers left their jobs in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana in a dispute over wages. Another 2,000 in Montana awaited a call to join the walkout.

Three other strikes added 22,000 to the mounting list of idle. They included 15,000 CIO workers of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation in the Philadelphia-Camden, N. J., area. The huge yard where eight navy ships are under construction, closed, as the workers went on a sitdown, their second within a week.

The trouble stemmed from the al Conciliation Service.

Parley Must Not Fail Labor Secretary Says

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach told the labor-management oil conference in Chicago today that the meeting cannot be permitted to fail because "the time (for action) is short."

The secretary sent a telegram to Justice William L. Knous, of the Colorado supreme court, designated presiding officer at the conciliation conference between the CIO Oil Workers and Oil Companies whose plants are closed by strikes.

The conference provided the first major test of the Truman administration's postwar wage policy under a reorganized labor department and strengthened conciliation service. The secretary and his new conciliation chief, Edgar L. Warren, called the meeting.

The strike stemmed from the union demands for a 30 per cent increase.

firing of several men charged with loafing by the company. Other stoppages in the last 24 hours idled 5,000 at the Western Cartridge Company plant in East Alton, Ill., and 2,000 workers at the Simmons Company in Kenosha, Wis.

Department of labor officials in Washington watched for results at the conference in Chicago at which oil company representatives and officials of the CIO Oil Workers International Union were to meet with members of the Federa

Number Idle In Pennsylvania Soars To More Than 60,000

By the Associated Press

The number of strike-idle in Pennsylvania soared to more than 60,000 today with the prospect that this would be increased.

Five men were reported injured when employes attempted to cross a picket line at the Conestoga Transportation Company. In Lancaster, three men, including a union president, were held on assault charges.

Union spokesmen said that because of the trouble, a general labor holiday might be declared in Lancaster county. It would, they asserted, affect at least 12,000 AFL and 10,000 CIO workers, all of them pledged to aid the AFL-Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach employes in its fight for new contract. The bus strike has been under way since Sept. 1.

Biggest strikes in western Pennsylvania were at Westinghouse Electric Corp., and in the soft coal fields.

A federal labor concilator was assigned to the Westinghouse strike of "white collar" workers, which has made 31,612 idle at the East Pittsburgh, Sharon, Derry and Nuttall plants. At the Nuttal works, a picket line was increased forcing another 150 hourly workers to be laid off.

The Westinghouse salaried employes seek an incentive pay plan similar to that under which hourly workers are paid.

At least 35 pits were idle in the drive of mine bosses for recognition of their union—the UMWA—Affiliad United Technical, Super-

Vermont Professor Addresses Farm Group In Warren Today

County AAA committeemen from eleven northeastern counties of Pennsylvania attended a meeting in the court house this morning to learn the details of the government price support program and to discuss the agricultural conservation program for 1946. The principal speaker was Dr. George Dykhuisen, professor of philosophy of the University of Vermont.

In discussing the problems of agriculture and their deeper implications Dr. Dykhuisen drew a parallel to the disturbed social order of the French revolution and the slogan of the oppressed which became the battle cry of freedom loving peoples over all the earth, "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity Farmers, he said have grown up in an atmosphere of individual liberty is essential to agricultural well being. They are unmindful that industry has gone through a period of amalgamation and close integration so that chain stores, radio networks, holding companies and consolidations of steel mills, utilities and financial institutions now speak and act as a unit for business interests.

Farmers who espouse the cause of individualism overlook that labor groups have found strength in union and have found it necessary to speak not as individuals or as unions or as a trade group, bu' in the name and with the authority of a Congress of Industrial Organization or an American Federation. Farmers alone adhere to the plan of seeking liberty through individual liberty even though surrounded by social en-

Occupation of Japan May Last Many Years

Everybody Wants To Go Around the World

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—The U. S. Army Air Transport Command clawed out from under a pile of letters and telegrams today and telephoned The Associated Press for help.

"We can't do anything but answer phones and mail," said Capt. George Mason. "Everybody wants to go around the world, or send a letter, or get a souvenir. Could you please re-emphazize just two things about our 6¼ day round-the-world flight starting Friday, Sept. 28?

"First—it's just like the AP story said last Friday: Only a civilian certified as traveling in the national interest could go.

"Second—to stamp collectors: No first flight covers will be carried. Only military or diplomatic mail."

Hirohito Says Tojo Double-Crossed Him

New York, Sept. 25—(AP)—The New York Times in a special dispatch from Tokyo, today quoted Emperor Hirohito as saying in an interview that he had no intention of having his war rescript employed as former Premier Hideki Tojo used it when Japan launched her sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

Hirohito told The Times' Tokyo Correspondent, Frank L. Kluckhorn, that he had expected Tojo to declare war against the United States in the usual, formal manner, if necessary.

The emperor stated, Kluckhorn reported, that he was opposed to war as an instrument of policy and pledged that any social changes in Japan would be made by constitutional means. He said he would favor a constitutional monarchy like that of the British.

Kluckhorn said his interview had been authorized by both the emperor and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Describing his deception by Hirohito, the correspondent wrote:

"Dressed in a black morning coat, striped trousers and white shirt, with a stiff wing collar and a black tie, Emperor Hirohito received me standing before an ordinary chair that served as his throne in a large, rather magnificent room on the third floor of the ministry of the imperial household within the imperial palace grounds. The main palace was burned by incendiary bombs and the emperor is living in a good-sized cottage on the same grounds.

"There was no formality, however. I did not bow nor was I asked to do so. I walked straight across what was an essentially bare chamber and the emperor extended his hand, which I shook."

Kluckhorn said he was the first American to see the emperor since the war began and the first foreigner to interview him since the Japanese surrender.

Kluckhorn said he had submitted a list of written questions to the emperor and that Hirohito had the answers already prepared.

The emperor told the correspondent that food and housing were Japan's two paramount problems. Once the Japanese people have been fed and clothed, he said, it will be comparatively easy to carry out the needed reforms within Japan, which he said he thought would make for the general peace of the world.

Hirohito said that it was his earnest desire that the necessary changes in Japan would be carried out in line with the general will of the people expressed through constitutional procedure.

Discharge Plan Is Liberalized

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—The navy announced today that any enlisted man with three or more children under 18 years of age will be released at his own request.

The move, effective immediately, marked a liberalization of policy governing so-called "hardship" cases which are handled outside the point discharge system. Under such conditions, an enlisted man would be considered a "prima facia hardship case," the navy explained.

The change will not affect the point system, which gives a flat 10 point credit for dependency regardless of number of dependents.

The navy estimated at the time the point system went into effect that there were about 97,000 enlisted men in the navy with three or more children. A "sizeable percentage" of that number already have been released under the point system, however.

The new rule does not apply for officers. "Hardship" cases involving officers will continue to be considered individually.

NEW MEETING OF BIG THREE IN PROSPECT

Foreign Ministers' Council Prepares to Close Session With No Important Agreements Reached

SOLUTIONS HIT SNAG

By FLORA LEWIS

London, Sept. 25—(AP)—Belief that another meeting of President Truan, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee may be necessary to iron out Europe's major peace problems was voiced in some quarters today as the foreign ministers' council prepared to close its two weeks session with the record of important agreements precisely at zero.

Some delegates still spoke hopefully of a second session of the Big Five foreign ministers in December, but this could be arranged only if the deputies were able to worw out solutions to the many problems tossed their way by the foreign ministers.

There has been no formal mention of another session of the major powers' leaders, but the thought has been expressed by some delegates that top-level consideration might be needed to smooth the rocky path to European agreements.

These sources felt it might be necessary to include Gen. De Gaulle in such a meeting. The French here have been reported resentful of what was termed an attempt by the Russians to exclude them from consideration of certain problems—particularly the Balkan discussions.

Gen. De Gaul's object during the past year has been to obtain recognition of France as a major power. The French were just beginning to overcome the sting of being kept out of the Potsdam meeting when the Balkan treaty question arose.

The French were expected to try to force consideration of plans for western Germany before the council adjourns today, but there seems little likelihood of success in that direction.

Final conference talks were expected to be concentrated on Eu-

Forty-Five Soft Coal Mines Idle

Pittsburgh, Sept. 25—(AP)—Forty-five soft coal mines in western Pennsylvania were closed by strikes today, with 21,637 men idle and a production loss estimated by the Solid Fuels Administration at 108,896 tons.

Walkouts by supervisory employes spread to two more mines in the Altoona SFA District and ten more in the Pittsburgh-Uniontown field. The men are striking for recognition of their union—the United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employes, an affiliate of the United Mine Workers.

The SFA reported picketing in the Pittsburgh section, but said none was observed in the Altoona region.

Rank and file miners were forced into idleness by absence from the mines of supervisory employes reuired to make safety inspections and manage the pits.

Campaign In Pittsburgh Is In High Gear

Pittsburgh, Sept. 25—(AP)—The fight for mayor of Pittsburgh went into high gear today. Adherents bolted from both major parties to enliven the campaign between the banner-bearers—State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence, and Republican Robert N. Waddell.

The Democrats held their opening rally last night and presented five Republican ward leaders, including chairman of two of the biggest wards, on their speaker's platform.

These Republicans had decided to "volunteer their active support" to the Democrats, said the Democratic nominee, Lawrence.

These "bolts" came quick on the heels of the announcement by register of wills John M. Huston, who twice has tried and lost in an effort to be the Democratic candidate for mayor, that he would support the Republican candidate, Waddell.

Huston denounced the Democratic conduct of city affairs, for which he blamed Lawrence.

The Republicans who joined the Democrats are J. P. Tighe, chairman of the 19th ward; Robert L. Cook, chairman of the 14th ward; Alderman Clarence E. Clagett, seventh ward; and Curtis B. Haines and Irving Johnson, both fifth ward. All supported Republicans in the primary.

$43,000,000 Wartime Salvage Drive In State Terminating With An Outstanding Record

Harrisburg, Sept. 25—(AP)—Pennsylvania's $43,000,000 wartime salvage campaign ends this week.

During the drive, the commonwealth gathered enough waste material to fill a mythical freight train stretching from Philadelphia to Chicago.

Official records show that Pennsylvanians:

Collected enough scrap metal to fill 44,471 freight cars—that would build 56 battleships of 35,000 tons each; an aircraft carrier, a light cruiser and a destroyer.

Gathered enough waste paper to load 110,107 cars.

Washed and flattened 1,672 carloads of tin cans.

Contributed 2,379 carloads of rags.

Saved 845 carloads of fats.

Colley Baker, executive director of the Pennsylvania Salvage Committee, in announcing the totals, said today that the waste material campaign netted an average of $1,000,000 a month during the 43 months of organized salvage collection.

"The money that was paid for material collected went for things that ordinarily would come out of the pockets of the public," he said.

Under the decentralized program of conducting the campaign, each local committee arranged for collections to suit itself and also could spend the money as it wished.

They built Boy Scout cabins, furnished facilities for air raid wardens, bought smokes for servicemen, contributed to girl organizations such as the Girl Scouts, Red Cross, blind, child care, Salvation Army, infantile paralysis funds and other charitable or civic groups.

It was almost entirely a volunteer job. There were 500,000 people involved, and many of them gave their services from the start in early 1942 until the end, getting nothing out of it except a nice scroll from the state and a feeling of satisfaction. A lot of them want to continue their work, Baker said, but the state organization must shut down officially next Sunday, Sept. 30.

Pennsylvania's drive was tied-in with the far-reaching chain of defense councils, reaching into all 67 counties, 36 cities, 772 boroughs and 231 townships.

They did so well that the Keystone State was cited a number of times by the national headquarters, Baker stated.

Pennsylvania was the only state said Baker, to setup tin can col-

Nazi Accuser Unshaken In Her Testimony

By WILLIAM FRYE

Lueneberg, Sept. 25—(AP)—Defense counsel in the Lueneberg trial attempted today to shake the testimony of Dora Szafran that she had seen Josef Kramer, commandant at Oswiecim concentration camp, beat her follow prisoners.

Maj. Thomas Winwood, one of the officers defending Kramer and 44 others charged with conspiracy to commit miass murder at Belsen and Oswiecim, asked the witness to reconcile her testimony with another statement she had made that the prisoners she recognized in the dock were "too important" to spend their time beating the inmates.

"There is no doubt about it," the witness replied. "He, Kramer, did take part in the beatings. But he had more important tasks, such as sending people to be gassed."

The witness said that in December, 1943, she saw Kramer beat a woman who had lost a shoe and had fallen out of line while a work detail was being marched out through the camp gate. Winwood questioned her memory on such details, and she replied:

"I saw so much that I cannot forget."

Maj. A. S. Munro, representing the defense, tried to shake her identification of Juana Bormann, a women SS guard, who, the witness had testified yesterday, set dogs on the prisoners. He asked the prisoner to stand in the dock.

"Yes," said the witness, "she has changed a lot, but that is the woman. The dog was almost as tall as she it."

Boy To Be Tried In Stone Slaying

Johnstown, Sept. 25—(AP)—The Cambria county juvenile court on Oct. 5 will hear the case of 9-year-old Lloyd James Edwards of South Fork, held in the stone slaying of 3-year-old Phyllis Jean Epperson of South Fork last Sept. 5.

This was decided at a conference yesterday between Common Pleas Court judges George W. Griffith and Ivan J. McKenrick and District Attorney Stephen Mayer.

Under the procedure adopted the Edwards boy, now held at Cambria county jail, will not be arraigned before an Alderman and the grand jury will not act on his case. This unusual step was taken because of the boy's extreme youth, authorities said.

Dist. Attorney Mayer said also that Dr. Catherine Wiseman, psychiatrist at Torrance State Hospital, will call at Cambria county jail, probably today, to examine the boy.

Large Size Sugar Stamps Suspended

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—Large size sugar ration stamps—forms R-1209 and R330—will be invalid after October 5.

The OPA announcing this today, said very few of these are outstanding, since smaller coupons had been issued since last April. The stamps being withdrawn were used for furlough and illness rations.

Sugar stamp 38 in ration Book Four, good for the regular household ration, is not affected by today's action.

Confirmation Puts Okay On Hard Peace

Washington, Sept. 25—(AP)—A hard peace for Japan had official, if indirect, okays today from both the White House and the senate.

The senate's 69 to 1 approval of Dean G. Acheson as undersecretary of state was interpreted widely on Capitol Hill as a round-about endorsement of the tough-on-Japan policy Acheson has championed.

Similariy, President Truman's clarification of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's authority was looked upon as notice to the Japanese that they will haves to obey America's orders without question.

Acheson's confirmation came after a short-lived fight by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip. Wherry sought to sidetrack the assistant secretary's promotion back to the senate foreign relations committee.

Wherry contended Acheson had rebuked MacArthur for estimating that he could get along with 200,000 troops to police Japan six months from now.

In the sometimes bitter debate that followed, however, the Nebraskan said his chief objection to Acheson was that the latter seemed to be fostering a policy for a social and economic revolution in Japan. That, Wherry said, "may take hundreds of thousands of lives before it is put down."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee jumped into the debate with the assertion that he, for one, is "will-

Plans For Nazi Invasion Of England In 1940 Are Revealed

Berlin, Sept. 25—(AP)—Documents discovered here show that the Germans were preparing in the fall of 1940 to strike at south and southeast England with 22 divisions and with 17 more divisions in resrve, it was disclosed today.

Military authorities declined to say for certain that the final operational order has been uncovered, but this seems to have been the general plan for the assult:

The initial attack was to be launched by the German Ninth and 16th armies, forming army Group A. The 16th was to sail from Ostend, Dunkerque, Calais, Boulogne and the mouth of the Somme river, and was to land on the Kentish coast between Margate and Hastings. The Ninth was to leave Dieppe, Le Havre and Caen and hit the British coast between Portsmouth and Brighton.

Airborne landings were planned north of the Romney marshes, between Folkestone and Hastings.

Army Group B, made up of the enlarged German Sixth Army, was to follow these initial thrusts by sailing from Cherbourg for Bournemouth of Weymouth Bay.

Landing forces of the two army groups were to comprise 11 infantry and two mountain divisions with a mobone force of six armored, one SS and two motorized divisions.

Reserves were to total nine infantry divisions and eight additional infantry divisions which were to be available from general headquarters reserves, the documents showed.

Timed with the assault the Germans were prepared to unveil their secret weapon, the six-barrelled Nebelwerfer mortar.

Code word for the invasion was to be "sealion."

DOMEI ABOUT TO QUIT

By the Associated Press

Tokyo, Sept. 25—(AP)—Allied occupation of Japan may last for many years—although with minimum forces participating—General MacArthur announced through an official spokesman today.

As he spoke, combat-clad veterans of Palau were dashing ashore at Aomori, expanding the ground-forces occupation to the narthermost tip of Honshu, and the navy reported 48 warships carrying 20,000 service personnel home for discharge were due to leave Pearl Harbor today.

The statement was issued in denial of a report Sept. 21 by Ted Dealey, president of the Dallas, Tex., Morning News. Dealey had written that MacArthur told him the occupation could end in six months "if we are not too ruthless and cruel."

"What he (MacArthur) said," today's statement asserted, was that occupation forces, under favorable conditions, could be reduced to minimum size in six months.

"He has stated that the occupation itself might last many years."

Stripped of special privileges by the Allied command, Domei News Agency probably will quit, its president, Imosuke Furorfo reported today. He said he had decided to recommend its dissolution to the next meeting of the board of directors. Noting that three major Tokyo dailies were considering formation of a new agency, he said "it would be impossible to make both ends meet" if Domei attempted to operate in competition.

Armed with a presidential directive making it clear that he is the highest authority in Japan, MacArthur meanwhile clamped other controls even more tightly on Ja-

General Patton To Clarify Statement

U. S. Third Army Headquarters, Bad Toelz, Germany, Sept. 25—(AP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., commanding the eastern military district in Bavaria, has been told by his superiors to "clarify" his remarks Saturday about Denazification of the Bavarian administration, which caused repercussions in the United States.

For that purpose, Patton called a formal news conference of all correspondents in this area for this afternoon.

A request to Patton for comment on the American reaction to his remarks, which included editorial protests in several newspapers brought this statement from an aide:

"The general is working on that right now. We've heard from above and we're planning to call in everybody for a clarifying statement."

Inquiry To Be Held At Pearl Harbor

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A Senate-house committee decided today to visit Pearl Harbor in its investigation of the sneak Japanese attack which plunged the United States into war.

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) said the group would go to Hawaii as soon as it has made a preliminary study of evidence already obtained by various inquiry boards.

He said hearings probably will be held there. Testimony likely will be taken from witnesses who would have difficulty in coming to Washington for hearings here, he added.

The primary objective of the trip, Barkley said, will be to familiarize committee members with the physical layout of Pearl Harbor in relation to preparations made to meet such an attack as the Japanese staged.

Only one member, Senator Brewster (R-Me) previously has visited Pearl Harbor. Barkley said all committee members would be urged to make the flying trip. Senator George (D-Ga.) previously told reporters he could not go.

Equinoctial Storm Deluges District With Heavy Rain

Autumn arrived Sunday with no disturbance, but the storm that is supposed to usually mark the equinoctial period failed to arrive until Monday evening. The storm started late Monday afternoon and seemed to grow in intensity until 11 o'clock. Brilliant electric discharges lighted the skies and heavy thunder boomed over the district. Heavy rain poured down and on many streets sewers had difficulty in carrying off the water. On Carver street the deluge forced the cover off a manhole and police had to replace it.

Two fire alarms were received during the evening, one from a car which was burning about the wiring near the East street school. The second alarm took the firemen to the C. C. Miles home, 8 Third avenue. Rain was beating through a hole made by lightning. No fire resulted and firemen patched the hole in the roof.

At Irvine a bolt of lightning hit the home of Clinton Johnson. The bolt entered from the rear of the home and tore into the sink and did considerable damage. No fire resulted although the Youngsville fire department was called.

Water on several roads over the county did some damage. At Grand Valley the culverts were unable to carry the rush of water with the result that large quantities of mud and water were on the roadway. The water subsided following the saorm, but the mud and silt made driving dangerous. One culverto at Weldbank als stopped up by debris and water was sent rushing over the road with such force that one way traffic had to be resorted to and motorists moved with care.

The Buffalo bus of the West Ridge line from Pittsburgh was late in arriving in Warren due to to road conditions and did not get into Warren until almost nine o'clock. Passengers were taken to restaurants here for breakfast. Water and debris on the roads held up the bus. The Pittsburgh papers carried on the bus were late in arriving.

Driving conditions on the road were difficult and there were many near accidents due to the driving rain and all traffic had to move slowly in order to avoid accidents.

Small streams over the county were sent rushing out of their banks and the creek and river this morning were rising and the water was muddy.

Well Known Citizen Killed In Accident

Charles Adolphson, 70, well known resident of Warren, was killed instantly last evening about 9:10 o'clock when he was struck by an automobile driven by Joe H. Wick, North Warren, while he was walking toward Warren on Route 62, about 150 feet beyond the borough limits on upper Market street in a blinding electric storm. State police and Coroner Ed Lowrey, who investigated, stated that Wick reported that he was enroute to Warren when suddenly the form of a man loomed in front of him so unexpectedly that he was unable to avoid striking him. His version of the accident was corroborated by Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, who were driving in a truck directly behind the Wick car. A certificate of death from a fractured skull accidentally received will be issued.

Mr. Adolphson before coming to Warren was a well known woods contractor in this section, being prominently identified with the business in Forest county. Later he purchased a farm in this county. Since his retirement he has been residing at 705½ Fourth avenue west.

At the time of the accident a hard storm was raging and officials have been unable to learn why Mr. Adolphson was walking on the highway at the time. He sustained a fractured skull, both legs were broken at the ankles and no doubt had internal injuries. Marks on the car show that the force of the impact was on the right side, the windshield being broken, and the right fender dented.

Removal was made to the Lutz funeral home. Mr. Adolphson is survived by the following children: Otto Adolphson, Warren; Melbourne and Russell Adolphson, Erie; Mrs. Hilma Johnson, Limestone, N. Y.; Mrs. Edith Cox, Jacksonville, Pa.; Mrs. Jennie Hutter, Buffalo, N. Y.; also six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Highway Dept. Busy With Two County Roads

Employes of the Warren County Branch of the State Highway Department are hard at work on two good sized projects which it is hoped to have completed before bad weather interferes with the construction work. The larger job is on Route 61,011 out of Tidioute over Morrison Hill. This is a five mile construction job installing a farm to market highway. One mill of the grading has been completed and is ready for the gravel top.

The other job is on Route 61,068 through old Irvindale Park. This road was rebuilt last year and it will receive a face lifting treatment of oil and limestone chips.

Another piece of wark in on the Warren-Kinzua road where water under the grade causes the road to sink almost every summer several inches. Th road has sunk onc mor from 6 to 15 inches. A gravel fill will be made and a black top put in place.

H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Samuels Hotel, Jamestown, Sunday and Monday only, Sept. 30, Oct. 1, from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly no matter the size or location but it will increase the circulation, strengthen the weakened parts, and thereby close the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

Jap 'Guinea Pig' for Atomic Bomb

The U. S. Navy is reported planning to blast the 32,700-ton Japanese battleship Nagato, above, with atomic bombs in an experiment that may decide the form of all navies in the future world. The heavily damaged Nagato, only battleship remaining to the enemy, will be towed 500 miles out to sea where atom bombs will be dropped on it to ascertain whether America's superweapon will sink a ship of this sort and the effect of the blast on the water.

Four Motors Stolen Were Recovered

Four electric motors reported stolen last week from the Akeley creamery and saw mill operated by Harvey J. Randall were recovered by Deputy Sheriff Sanford Secor and State Police Officer Les Fobes at Jamestown. The motors were valuable and disappeared early this month. Report was made to the Sheriff's office but due to the work under way at the office investigation did not open until last Saturday morning.

Two juveniles one 16 and one 18 years of age had taken the motors and the boys were apprehended and confessed to where they had disposed of the motors. The officers went to Jamestown where the motors were located and all four were surrendered to the authorities. All had been sold to different persons.

The boys will be brought into juvenile court later.

Vermont Professor Addresses Farm Group

tities which disprove the favorite contention, Dr. Dykhuisen said.

In the new social order it is not necessary to agricultural welfare to think in terms of the individual farmer. The welfare of the individual independent upon the welfare of the group. The surrender of certain personal liberties are compensated for in the liberties gained for the group he represents. In this democracy we have learned that action representing the will of the majority is liberty so long as the minority maintains the right of persuading a segment of the majority in its particular point of view. In America we have learned to subordinate personal liberties to the will in the majority. Citizens have lost their individualism in a social system that is now setting up a standard for world citizenship.

World citizenship, said Dr. Dykhuisen, demands the consideration of the last word in the slogan of the French Revolution, Fraternity. We in America have usually stressed liberty and equality in our economic lives at the expense of fraternity. This is probably because our economic lives have always emphasized competition and getting the better of the other fellow in a bargain and because farmers have always led a life of independence and self reliance on their farms.

Farmers can entertain thoughts of social isolation no longer. He is surrounded by men and groups who fraternize among themselves and he must learn now to utilize the benefits of fraternity both among farmers as a group and among representatives of capital and labor organizations. There is a definite relationship between the belching chimneys of industry and the man who stands at the pay windows and the farmers who must have real meaning at home and abroad if agriculture is to take its place in a world democracy.

We are here to discuss the part that government must play in a prosperous agriculture. We have abandoned the ties that the best governed is the least governed. We are no longer individual citizens striving for a common social code. We have giant organizations striving for individual social and economic gains. Government alone can occupy the position of referee between rival groups. Government must offer the leadership td bring these groups together so as to avoid our working at cross purposes, according to Dr. Dykhuizen.

Government has a special duty to farmers. Since capital and labor are highly organized, farmers must have some form of organization procedure if they are to compete on equal terms with these others. Government can help farmers to help themselves by offering leadership which will coordinate their efforts so as to bring about fair prices and incomes to those engaged in agriculture.

Potato Growers Plan Field Day At Edinboro October 3rd

Potato growers from a five-county district of Erie, Crawford, Forest, Venango, and Warren counties will examine results obtained in an extension 12-variety demonstration at a district potato field day the afternoon of Wednesdlay, Oct. 3 on the Wilber Billings farm at Edinboro.

With extension specialists from Pennsylvania State college leading the discussion, growers also will review a number of phases of potato production, including use of DDT and nicotine as added spray materials for insect control.

In addition the variety demonstration, prowers will have opportunity to examine another planting on the Billings farm where four applications of DDT was used in addition to bordeaux spray.

The variety demonstrations, arranged by the Erie County Agricultural Extension association of which L. H. Bull is assistant county agent, have been developed cooperatively by the agricultural extension service of State college and Mr. Billings.

The field day program will start at one p. m. Extension specialists will explain different phases of the project. They are Dr. Henry Menusan, extomologist; J. B. R. Dickey, agronomist; Dr. O. D. Burke, plant pathologist, and R. B. Donaldson, economist in charge of marketing.

Potatoes from the variety plots will be dug and placed on exhibition. The field day, Ass't County Agent Bull informs, will be the third of four regional days arranged by the agricultural extension service to give potato growers of the state the benefits of findings from variety plantings which include four scab-resistant varieties and one that is immune from ring-rot.

Final Tin Can Drive Will Cover Whole County Tomorrow

Tomorrow promises to be the final tin can drive to be held in the county and it is urged that everyone turn in every processed can that can be found in the whole county. One unusually big car has been ordered in for the shipment of the cans and Chairman Corbett said today "We have in one of the biggest cars we have ever had on the side track here and just in case we get the response we are hoping of another smaller car has been placed on the siding. Its up to Warren county to show its support of the boys in service by loading those cars to the top."

It can be done and citizens of Warren are especially appealed to in this drive to fill both cars and show Mr. Corbett that his faith in the county has not been misplaced.

When one remembers that in the salvage drives in this county since the war started that 2000 cars of salvaged materials have been shipped the mere matter of filling two cars with cans shouldn't be such a big job.

In Warren, Pleasant township, Russell and Youngsville the drive tomorrow will pick up the cans on the curbs but in the remainder of the county the schools will handle the drive. The schools have made a wonderful record during the war and tomorrow the boys and girls should make an especial effort to finish the salvage drives in a blaze of glory.

GRETTA VALJEAN GRUBBS

Funeral services were held at Borden's Funeral Parlors, Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock for Gretta Valjean Grubbs, of Barnes. Death was caused from hemmorrages following a tonsil operation which was performed last Saturday, Sept. 15, in the W. C. A. Hospital at Jamestown, N. Y. She had been dismissed from the hospital Monday following the operation, and apparently was getting along very well. Late Thursday afternoon she started to hemmorrage, and was rushed to the hospital where she died about 5:30 p. m.

She was 7 years of age last Sunday. She is survived by her parents, a brother, Richard, at home, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Nichols of Barnes. Also a number of uncles, aunts and cousins.

Borden's ambulance called at the hospital Thursday evening, bringing the body to Sheffield. Interment was in the Barnes Cemetery. Rev. Taylor officiating.

The following acted as casket-bearers: Shirley Cunningham, Mary Alyce Ewings, Betty Dehner, and Joann McAvoy, the three former girls being cousins of the deceased.

PERRY A. COLLINS
(Contributed)

Services in memory of Perry A. Collins, of Union Springs, N. Y., were held in the Russell Methodist church on Friday, September 21, when the many flowers were evidence of the high esteem in which he was held. The rites were conducted by the Rev. Green, of Bradford, assisted by the Rev. Philip Schlick, pastor of the Russell church. Mrs. Inez Gleason sang the hymn "The Haven of Rest". Interment was made in Pine Grove cemetery with George Gates, Oscar Shellin, Ward and Frank Collins, Norman English and Harold Howard as bearers.

Attending the services from away were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, Auburn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Evald Edberg, Mrs. Nord, the Rev. Gunnar Nelson, Mrs. Helen Carlson, Jamestown, N. Y.

Mr. Collins was born in Russell on January 3, 1893, a son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Collins. His death occurred September 18 after he had fallen from a moving truck. He was united in marriage in 1914 to Mabel Outrid, who died in December, 1919. To them were born two children, Elton DeForest Collins and Ila Mae Deerwester, of Union Springs. Later he married Esther Gustafson, and to them two children were born: Ruth Marie, in California, and Violet Rose, in Union Springs. Besides his wife and four children, he leaves four grandchildren; four sisters and one brother: Mrs. Emma Beebe, Warren; Mrs. Carrie Beach, North Warren; Mrs. Alberta McManus and Mrs. Lozella Wright, of Russell; Albert Collins, Pasco, Wash., with five nieces and one nephew.

In 1917 he joined the Seventh Day Adventist church, since which time his life ambition had been to pass on to others the truths of the Bible, which had become very precious to him. He was never too busy to leave his work when anyone needed help or service which he could render, and he will be greatly missed.

PANNING INSPECTIONS

Fire Chief Charles Albaugh and members of the fire department are laying plans for the annual inspection of basements and attics in the business section during Fire Prevention Week October 7-13th. This inspection annually brings to light some fire hazards which the department requires be eliminated. Business men will do well to have clean basements when the firemen arrive. Private homes are also to be given attention this year and attics and basements should be cleaned of all inflamable materials. Heating systems and chimneys must also be inspected and cleaned.

The two big targets on display at Finley's Sport Shop have come in for much inspection and comment. BUMPER CROP BRINGS PROBLEM

Alarmed by the growing surplus of food crops due to decreased purchasing power of wage earners, the State AAA Committee has called a series of conferences to discuss problems of price support and purchase program provided by congress for the protection of farmers in the post-war period. One of these meetings is being held in the court house here today, bringing together County AAA committees and representative farmers to decide on the use of government support prices for the purchase and distribution of food commodities. It is understood that the programs will protect farmers from falling prices and will affect wheat, corn, milk, poultry, potatoes, fruit and livestock.

At a meeting in Harrisburg, the State AAA committee approved a plan to divert surplus potatoes into livestock feed before cold weather destroys the portion of the crop left without proper storage facilities. At the present time southern Pennsylvania potatoes are being moved as far north as Vermont for experimental research by the Agricultural College as a substitute for corn in silos.

The sessions here today should prove very helpful to farmers of the entire area.

OVERSEAS MAIL

To mail or not to mail. That is the question bothering servicemen's families, now that it is time to send Christmas packages overseas again. But the answer is fairly simple.

If he has enough points for discharge, or if his outfit has not been slated for occupation duty, then he may well get home for Christmas. If on the other hand, he does not have enough points; or if, in spite of his points, he belongs to an outfit scheduled for occupation, it is better to send the presents.

General Eisenhower has pointed out that it will be an almost impossible task to get Christmas gifts safely to men already on the way home, because their addresses change so fast. And the shipping problem is already hard enough without adding extra ocean trips for boxes whose owners have passed them midway. But the men who have to stay for a while—and there are millions of them—will need more than ever the knowledge that friends at home haven't forgotten them.

So, watch the newspaper for troop movements, and read his letters carefully. If you're sure he'll be home, don't mail. If not, mail gifts at once.

PASTE THIS IN YOUR HAT

Writing in Newsweek, Ralph Robey states a few facts that every private citizen should paste in his hat, and this goes double for every public official having authority to spend tax dollars. Almost every day some new plant is proposed for spending a hundred million, 500 million, or a billion tax dollars of the people's money. Mr. Robey suggests that we stop and think where all of this money is coming from—certainly not from the men in the legislative bodies who propose spending it. He points to twelve years of depression after 1929 and asks the question, "Are those the years in which we accumulated the great riches we now propose to deal out so lavishly? For the nation as a whole those were years when we had to draw down, not increase our backlog of wealth.

"We have produced an incredible amount of goods. But it has been, or is in the process of being largely destroyed. A nation does not become wealthy by destroying wealth. Wherein, then, do we get the idea that we are now so rich that we no longer need to think a second time about spending a few billions here and there? The answer really is quite simple. It is to be found in the fact that we have not paid for the war as we went along."

PERFECT EXAMPLE

William Joyce, sentenced to hang for his treasonable Lord Haw Haw broadcasts from Germany, has at least given the world a concrete illustration of a familiar figure of speech: He literally talked himself to death.

It is a pleasure to join in the welcome to delegates and distinguished visitors who are in Warren today attending the 71st annual convention of the County Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Stamp News

HENRIK ARNOLD WERGELAND, Norwegian poet and prose writer, is honored by his native country with a three-stamp set commemorating the 100th anniversary of his death.

Portraying Wergeland, the stamps bear the dates 1808-1845. Their denominations and colors are 10-ore olive green; 15-o brown, and 20-o red. Wergeland's father was a member of the constitutional assembly which proclaimed the independence of Norway in 1814 and the son's early writings dealt considerably with politics. By 1840 he had established himself as a great lyric poet but was an exile from political influence. Norwegian-Americans erected a statue to his memory at Fargo, N. D., in 1908.

TWO additional Victory issues have been released. Uruguay overprinted the 75-cent value of its Pegasus airmail set with the inscription "Pictoria 1945," the figure of Liberty and a new value, 44-c, while Abyssinia overprinted a red "V" on five stamps whose designs are similar to its 1936 semi-postal set. Values are 5, 10, 25, and 50 centimes and one thaler. The Standard Catalogue, incidentally, does not recognize the 1936 semi-postal set as having been issued for postal purposes.

PHILATELIC AMERICANA: Some notes about United States stamps. . . .

The field of U. S. stamps is broad enough to frustrate any collector. Since the first stamps were issued in 1847, over 1,200 designs and denominations have been issued. And that doesn't include postage dues, stamped envelopes, revenues and the myriad other stamps collected by specialists. . . .

George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, whose portraits appeared on the first stamps, never lost their popularity with the Post Office Department. Exclusive of coil stamps, various portraits of Washington have appeared on 65 different postage stamps and Franklin's on 37 to top all rivals. . . .

Presidents' portraits are the most familiar subjects for U. S. postage stamps, but some 90 other historical characters have been memorialized on postal issues of this country. . . .

Charles A. Lindbergh is the only American to have a U. S. stamp issued in his honor while he was still alive. Even then the Post Office Department held to the tradition of not using the portrait of a living person. The 1927 air mail stamp, issued in tribute to Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic flight, shows only an airplane and his route to Europe. . . .

Unique among U. S. stamps is the 1920 Pilgrim Tercentenary commemorative issue. Either through accident or design "U. S. Postage" does not appear on any of the three stamps and there is nothing to identify them as U. S. origin! . . .

Few U. S. stamps have made as rapid a rise in value to collectors as the "Graf Zeppelin" air mail issues of 1930. On sale less than two months in 1930, the three stamps, with a face value of $4.55, issued for use on mail carried by the Graf Zeppelin on its first Europe-Pan American round trip flight, now command $60 and up in unused condition. . . .

Six widows of Presidents enjoy the privilege granted by Congress of free franking for their mail. The autograph or its facsimile is sufficient postage for the widows of Presidents Cleveland, Harrison, Theodore and Franklin Roosevelt, Wilson and Coolidge. . . .

Since 1894, purple has been the customary color for 3-cent stamps. But the Maryland Tercentenary issue of 1934 was carmine rose, the Pony Express commemorative of 1940 was henna brown, and the current armed services series is being issued in colors associated with each service instead of the traditional purple. . . .

Chapter 16

THE General, Seth and Gardner began to search the old fort. Down a few feet from the path where they found Potter, they discovered an entrance to a tunnel which ran under one of the magazine chambers. Following along this dark passageway, they finally came to a small cell where the only light sifted in through narrow slits high up on the mouldy walls. There was enough light in the cell for the men to see remnants of food on the muddy floor.

"That shows Potter had an accomplice," Gardner said, staring at the crusts of bread and scraps of meat. "He disappeared yesterday morning and some one brought him food after dark—last night."

"Some hiding place," the General ejaculated. "But when in thunder did he get that dossier over here—and how'd he do it? That dossier certainly wasn't in the hotel yesterday."

"That's right," Seth agreed quickly. "I'll bet Potter brought it over to the fort Sunday. He was probably just returning from the fort when I ran across him coming up on the Beach at three o'clock that morning."

The general waved his flashlight over the slimy walls of the ancient passageway. "I have to hand it to Potter. If everything else failed, a good swimmer could try his luck in the Atlantic until he reached another beach or a boat of some kind."

"That all seems practical, but I think he had some one else in on the deal, that he couldn't do it alone. . . ."

"And I think they quarreled," Gardner supplemented cheerfully. "Hence the shot in the back. Who ever the guy was, he saved you a lot of grief, Peabody."

"And how!"

BY the time they were back on the path again, Cobo and the doctor were ready to leave. They were going back to the morgue with the body.

"I suppose Delgado will carry on as coroner," Gardner said as the men came out on the street again.

"He will." Cobo assented quickly. "He in Miami this morning. He can fly back today. This case not take long now."

"No?" Gardner's voice showed his surprise. "How do you figure that, Chief?

"Man you saw in fort, not hard to find. Number one. Number two. Dolores Carabello killed by Potter. She find him getting dossier from trunk. He choke her. Only thing I not know—when Potter was killed."

"You're a funny fellow, Cobo. All the hard things are easy for you, and the easy thing you make difficult. The doctor will have all that settled for you in an hour. Probably he knows now, within thirty minutes, when this man was shot. That's routine for any medico."

"I want my dossier," Seth said suddenly. "Where'd you put it?"

"You come to morgue. Get it there," Cobo answered quickly. "Fingers very stiff. We not open them."

"There, you see. That answers your question, right off the bat, Cobo," the General exclaimed. He was standing by his car as Cobo went past him to signal the morgue wagon standing further down the street. "Ten hours, and you have advanced rigor mortis. A first year medical student could tell you when the man died, based on this one fact alone. You men coming with me?"

"No, thank you, General. Gardner and I are going to have some breakfast before we go down to the morgue." Seth smiled as he and the federal officer turned down White Street. His dossier was safe!

"I'll be getting out of Key West in a few hours now," he said, as the two men walked slowly back toward the hotel. "There's nothing to keep me here now, and I should have been in New York two days ago."

"I wouldn't rush things too fast if I were you," Gardner shook his head. "Cobo may be right about this case being cleared up, but I'm not at all sure of it myself."

"Why not? What's wrong with his outline of what happened?"

"Just this. Suppose for the sake of the argument we say that Potter did steal the dossier, but Dolores brought it to him—that he didn't take it from the trunk himself."

Seth whistled softly under his breath. "I never thought of that. Go on, what happens then?"

"Well, this may be cockeyed, but suppose Dolores hid the dossier under her bridal bouquet and took it downstairs to Potter—all of this having been arranged beforehand between them. Remember, Dolores was one of four people who knew where that trunk key was. . . ."

Seth nodded. "That's right. Proceed. You interest me very, very much, my friend."

"Okay, Dolores, as we said, gives the dossier to Potter, and promptly asks him for more money. Maybe she had been paid already for the job, but now that she has the dossier in her hand, she wants more—girls often do!

"There was little time for argument, Dolores' wedding march was already playing. So Potter told her that he would bring more money up to the room after the fashion show was over. This he did." Gardner stopped suddenly, looked at Seth thoughtfully, then deliberately lighted a cigarette. He held the match for a long moment, before he threw it away.

"But Gardner," Seth exclaimed impatiently. "If that's all true, who in Heaven's name killed Dolores?"

"I don't know—but Potter did."

"You mean Potter killed her?"

"Oh, no. Potter knew who killed her. He saw the murderer when he went to the room after the fashion show to give Dolores the extra money. That's why he was shot last night."

SOCIETY NEWS

Director Ann Hyatt Announces Cast For Opening Production of Players

Announcement of the cast for the October 11 and 12 presentation of "Over 21" serves notice of a probable hit in The Warren Players' initial production of the 1945-46 season.

Edith Pearlman, whose war-duration return to Warren has profited both the Players and her many friends here, and Charles Sellin, who gave such a delightful portrayal of the ubiquitous Mr. Jordan in "Heaven Can Wait", play the leads as Paula and Max Wharton in "Over 21".

Newcomers to the Players' stage are Jeanne McGarry, Jack Carrick, and Meredith Jones, all of whom respective roles as Jan and Roy Lupton and Miss Manley.

Virginia Billstone is another happy re-discovery, as Mrs. Foley, the wife of Colonel (George Cunningham) Foley. Art Langdon is identified succinctly as an Elderly Gent, and their usual professional performance may be expected of Fred Plummer as Robert Gow, Milliteen Kopp as Mrs. Gates, and Monty McClure as Joel I. Nixon.

All of which supports Director Ann Hyatt's claim that she has a deluxe and hard working cast. Director Hyatt, for that matter, is no small part of the drawing power which is expected to fill the auditorium on the nights of the play. Theatre goers, at the end of a year's judgment, still class last season's "Our Town", produced under Mrs. Hyatt's direction, as perhaps the most memorable play in the Players' history.

Primary assistants to Mrs. Hyatt in the behind-scenes preparations for "Over 21" are Helen Morrow in the thankless task of program adviser and Joe Acks, in charge of set. Mr. Acks is conservatively classified as an Einsteinian genius by his fellow workers as they look with awe on the realistic refrigerator he manufactured out of thin beaverboard.

"Over 21" is strictly comedy, designed to open the Players' season with an evening of laughter and pleasure. Details of the box office opening will be announced later in the week.

In the meantime, old and new patrons of the Players are reminded that the only sure way to secure seat reservations for the October 11 and 12 performance is to secure season memberships now. Applications can still be mailed to The Warren Players at Box 563, or completed by calling Astrid Cowden at 2386 or Monty McClure at 725-W.

Rebekahs Will Be Hostesses To Grand Lodge

Lady Warren Rebekah Lodge members enjoyed a fine entertainment Friday evening in celebration of the 94th anniversary of the founding of the Rebekah Lodge.

Jennie Clark presented a very interesting paper on the origin and activities of the lodge, Claude King showed some scenic movies of several states, most beautiful of which was Pennsylvania in fall colors, and several popular selections were sung by the group. Concluding, the social committee served refreshments.

On Friday of this week, the Rebekahs will have their regular six o'clock supper and 7:30 lodge meeting. New officers will be voted on and the degree staff will practice. All team members are asked to be present or to call Emma Pepperman, captain.

Preparations are being made to entertain Grand Lodge officers here on October 12, and the Noble Grand asks all officers to be in attendance to work out details.

Are Wed In Tunisia

One of the first men to enter the city of Tunis after it fell to the Allies in May, 1943, will be coming home soon, bringing with him the American girl he married September 1st in Tunis Cathedral. S/Sgt. Joseph H. A. Scalise, Jr., of Warren, and Miss Anny Conticello, Tunisian-born American citizen, were married in the stately cathedral on Avenue Jules Ferry. Thirty-five guests attended the noon luncheon reception held at Dar Naouar, and later in the evening a large reception at Hotel de France. The sergeant and his bride left afterward for Hammamet, where they planned to spend their honeymoon. Born in 1926, Anny Marie Conticello left Tunis at the age of six months to live in America with her parents. They resided in New York until her fifth year, when they returned to Tunis. She and Sgt. Scalise became acquainted almost a year ago when they were working in the same office at El Aouina Airport. They were engaged in May of this year. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Conticello, who live at 11 Rue D'Eglise in the Tunis Kasbah.

Sgt. Scalise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. A. Scalise, 413 Taft Place, entered the army in February, 1941, at Indiantown Gap. During his two years of duty in the United States he was an infantryman and took part in Virginia, Carolina and Louisiana maneuvers of 1941 and 1942.

The 26-year-old sergeant repeatedly turned down transfers, according to a special dispatch from the Air Transport Command Base at Tunis, and managed to remain there until permission for the wedding was granted by military authorities. He has visited most of the cities and towns in that region and, although he experienced a number of German bombings, was never injured. He has been in the Tunis and Bizerte area since May, 1943.

Ermina Lorenz And Robert McCoy Are United In Marriage

At nine o'clock Saturday morning in St. Joseph's church, Father Arthur Leon celebrated the nuptial high mass and read the service which united in marriage Ermina Lorenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lorenz, 608 Fourth avenue, and Robert McCoy, aviation machinist's mate, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McCoy, 610 Fourth avenue.

The church was beautifully decorated in gladioli and dahlias in fall shades. Kathleen Simmons was at the organ for the traditional numbers and as accompanist for Josephine Lucia, who sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother".

The bride wore a suit of dove gray, with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Lena Font, wore a suit of honor blue, with black accessories and pink corsage. Paul McCoy, honorably discharged from the United States Navy on September 12, was his brother's best man. The bride's mother chose navy blue, with tea roses for her corsage, and Mrs. McCoy wore Talisman roses with a gray ensemble.

A reception for thirty guests followed immediately at the Lorenz home. There were ten places at the bride's table, which was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake of heart shape, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom in navy blue. Other guests were seated at small tables. Glads and dahlias were repeated in the home decorations, along with asters and daisies.

Guests included Mrs. Frances Kronenwetter and son, Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dieterman, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hoffman and family, Mrs. Anna Boschert and son, John, all of St. Marys.

Mr. and Mrs. McCoy left later for a wedding trip to Buffalo and Canadian points. The bride, graduate of the local high school in the Class of 1939, is employed by Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and Mr. McCoy, high school graduate with the Class of 1938, was employed by Thomas Coupling before entering the navy three and one-half years ago. He is now on leave from the South Pacific and will report to New York for his next assignment.

THE STORY OF THE ATOM - - - - - No. 16: A New Weapon of War Is Used

(1) Skies were clear over Hiroshima when a superfortress dropped the first atomic bomb in warfare, banked for a 270-degree turn and flew away. Smoke, dust, and debris from the explosion rose 40,000 feet. The Japanese said the glare of the explosion lasted 10 minutes. The blast knocked out approximately 30 bridges and flattened houses for 10 miles around. So far more than 60,000 deaths have occurred as a result.

(2) Another bomb was dropped on the Naval base at Nagasaki, and superfortresses were ready with others when Japan surrendered. Material and equipment for the bombs had been sent to the Marianas by fast cruisers. Discovery of TNT-loaded balloons probably from Japanese in submarines in Washington state where one of the bomb factories was located, gave rise to the speculation that the Japanese may have heard about the atomic bomb before the Hiroshima attack.

(3) When the story of the atomic bomb was released, Prof. H. D. Smyth, of Princeton, wrote in a War Department report that "a weapon has been developed that is potentially destructive beyond the wildest nightmare of the imagination. It is so ideally suited to sudden unannounced attack that a country's major cities might be destroyed overnight by an ostensibly friendly power. The weapon has not been created by the devilish inspiration of some genius, but by the arduous labors of thousands of normal men and women working for the safety of their country." Our government hopes it will be used only for peaceful pursuits and to prevent war in the future.

(4) Scientists were fearful atomic bombs might leave dangerous radioactivity in the soil to cause injuries such as X-rays and radium burns. The Japanese reported workmen arriving to clear away debris from Hiroshima two weeks after the bombing, had suffered a change in their blood cells, according to microscope tests. A War Department statement said that "the bomb is detonated in combat at such a height above the ground, as to give the maximum blast against structures, and to disseminate the radioactive products as a cloud."

THE FARMER NEEDS YOUR HELP

Information, Please

The Warren County War Fund Campaign begins October 15 and ends October 22.

The goal is $88,700; the same as in 1944 and 1943.

Of this total. $49,700 remains in the County; $39,000 goes to the National War Fund.

$64,682 is the quota assigned to Warren Borough. $24,018 is to be raised in the County outside Warren Borough.

In other words, for every dollar raised by the County outside the Borough, six dollars must be raised inside the Borough, as figured on a per capita basis.

Not a cent of the money collected in the County outside Warren Borough goes for the support of any agency functioning within the Borough. Money collected outside the Borough is used for work outside the Borough and a proportionate share of the campaign expenses.

The War Fund provides for the eight local welfare agencies formerly included in the Community Chest, including: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Warren Relief, Visiting Nurses, Salvation Army, Children's Aid Society.

"How much should I give?" In answer to that question, figure out the equivalent of ten hours' pay. That is a reasonable donation.

the HANDWRITING ON THE WORLD

The atomic bomb did more than bring the war to an abrupt conclusion. It closed all previous history; closed, and sealed it off forever. It decisively wrote "Finis" to the millenia of man's bitter, toiling, struggling, progress toward the stars.

It said, without mincing words: "This must be One World—or No World." That is the atomic Handwriting on the World.

Will humanity be wise enough, strong enough, charitable enough, to meet that fearful challenge? Faced with the destruction of matter on a scale never before envisioned, with destruction which could engulf like a tornado the whole of man's earthly activities; will we be willing to put aside our nationalisms, our self-absorptions, our insularities? Will we be able to accept the Golden Rule as a practical necessity? A necessity whose alternate is race suicide?

There is a dramatic appropriateness in the National War Fund Campaign, following so closely upon the heels of the Japanese surrender. It is as if Providence were giving the world, and particularly America, the most powerful nation, its first chance to show whether it is worthy of survival. No other single cause could so quickly and emphatically prove whether we Americans are indeed willing to accept the idea of One World —or No World. The National War Fund reaches into every theatre of war where our boys are still waiting; into the defeated nations and their satellites; into the ravaged countries where hunger is life's condition.

Wise observers will await with intense anxiety the outcome of this great campaign of altruism; for that outcome may well be a weather-vane to show which way the winds of the future are blowing.

The National War Fund, too, is—

"The Handwriting on the World."

Benton Hurls Today Against Boudreaumen

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Presidents Will Harridge of the American League and Ford Frick of the National League might well devote some time today to the possibility of a pennant tie as the top contenders enter the final nerve-gnawing six days of the regular season.

It's never happened before and probably won't this time but if Detroit loses three of its last four and the St. Louis Cardinals sweep two more from Chicago there will be confusion aplenty.

Best chance for a deadlock is in the American where Washington has finished its schedule and has nothing more to do than wait and pray for the Tigers to get knocked over by Cleveland and St. Louis.

Steve O'Neill has a chance to be sure of at least a tie by beating Cleveland today in the opener of a two-game set and he has nominated Al Benton, the ex-sailor, to do the job. If the big fellow wins, it will be Hal Newhouser tomorrow to apply for the clincher.

The Cub-Cardinal two-day series opening at Wrigley Field today is loaded with possibilities. Beaten 15 times in 20 starts by Billy Southworth's gang, the Cubs now are only a game and a half ahead of St. Louis.

Hank Borowy, the ex-Kankee, who twice in the last month defeated St. Louis in 10 innings, each time by a 4-1 score, will pitch for the Cubs today. He will be opposed by Harry Brecheen, who has won his last six straight, including three over the Cubs, two by shutouts.

Dragon 2nds Beat Bradford Junior Varsity

Warren High's second squad annexed its first actual victory of the season last night, edging the Bradford Red and Black second eleven, 14-13, in a see-saw battle at bradford.

The Blue and Whiters were forced to the limit in the second half, entering the third stanza on the short end of a 13-0 count. A pass from Elmer Dutchess to Don White, followed by Ed Leonard's extra point lunge, slashed the Bradford lead to 13-7 in the third, and the Dragon's second score, another heave from Dutchess to Chuck Sherman, tied it all up at 13 apiece. Leonard put the game on ice when he plunged for a point a second time, giving the locals a 14-13 victory.

The Dragon's Beaty squad, coached by Harry Hutchings, pushed over the Sheffield seconds at Sheffield last night, 12-7. Madigan scored the initial tally on a pass and Brumagim went over for the second and winning touchdown. Lineups:

Nat Protest Is Rejected By Will Harridge

By BUS HAM

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Clark Griffith thinks something ought to be done about major league baseball players who turn umpire.

Maybe, says the owner of the Washington Senators, they ought to switch leagues, along with their jobs.

Griffith yesterday protested a decision by Umpire Eddie Rommel in the Senator's costly 4-3, 12-inning loss to Philadelphia in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader.

President Will Harridge of the American League turned down the protest. It involved chiefly a rule on what constitutes a legal catch of a fly ball.

Buddy Lewis, Washington outfielder, apparently caught a fly in the eighth inning but dropped the ball as he started to toss it to Second Baseman George Myatt. Rommel ruled it "no catch." The Athletics scored three runs in that inning to tie and won out in the 12th.

"Rommel is an old Philadelphia pitcher," Griffith told a reporter today.

"When our manager, Ossie Bluege, asked him why he didn't take the "A" (for Athletics) off his uniform, Rommel couldn't take it. (Griffith didn't say what good a late season victory would do a team as deep in the cellar as the A's.)

"Umpires are becoming more and more sensative, not only to what the managers say but also the fans.

"Maybe one of the answers is for former American League players to officiate in the National League, and vice versa."

POOL DRIVE GETS GOOD START IN EMPORIUM

Emporium, Sept. 25.—Sparked by a $1,000 contribution from the Emporium Moose Lodge and a donation of $100 from H. A. Regelman of Tucson, Ariz., former Emporium pharmacist, the community swimming pool drive got under way here yesterday. The Rotary Club, which made the initial donation of $500 last week, is sponsoring the project.

Local industries, it was said, will raise half the quota, provided the community as a whole raises the other half. The present drive is being confined to business and industrial leaders. A community-wide campaign will be launched next spring.

ACCUSED

I've been accused of being a "Yes Man" . . . and come to think of it—I am! That is, I like to say "Yes" when people ask for a loan. Which is only logical, after all, for the more times I say "Yes" the more loans I make. And since making Personal Loans is my full-time business, that's mighty important to me.

*Usually I can say "Yes" in a hurry. But even when circumstances are unusual, I try to find a way to work out a deal. That's why Personal is so often able to make loans that others cannot.

*Of course—once in a while I can't find a way. That's natural. When that happens, I personally sit down with the customer in a private office and discuss the situation frankly, on a common sense basis.

Like most people, I don't believe in unnecessary borrowing . . . but when a loan is needed or to your advantage, I'll be glad to say "Yes". Anytime you need extra cash—see me, won't you? Right now, for instance. See me at Personal Finance Co., 216 Liberty St., second floor, over Lester Shoe Store. Phone 285.

Latest decrees forbade making arms, ammunition and aircraft, promised priorities necessary for production of food, clothing and houses, required careful reporting of virtually every large-scale financial transaction, unshackled the Japanese press, and spurred democratic education.

Emperor Hirohito, who, well-informed Japanese say, soon will call upon MacArthur in person, offered no answers to questions asking the extent of his prior knowledge of Pearl Harbor plans and his own specific role in the war's beginning.

Military authorities continued their round-up of suspected war criminals and reported today that Nobuyuki Abe, Japanese ex-governor general of Korea, has been permitted to remain under guard in his Tokyo home due to illness. He will be removed to jail upon recovery, officers said, to await questioning or trial as one of the men on MacArthur's "wanted" list.

Associated Press Correspondent Duane Hennessy reported from Aomori that the 81st Infantry Division was the first to claim that charred town. Green-clad soldiers with bayonets fixed and backed by silently ready machine guns and mortars, splashed through the surf to the land.

There wasn't any shooting. A lone, grinning Japanese, middle-aged and packing a raincoat under his arm, stood waiting. On his other arm was a band that said "interpreter."

He stared at the troops and the troops stared at him as they jogged past.

Destroyers and cruisers and swooping planes were on hand to make certain that there was no trickery.

From two landing spots, the infantry turned away from Aomori where they established camps. The out into the surrounding country, town had been levelled by a presurrender B-29 fire raid.

Hennesy said Aomori was the same old story of impoverished people, living in crude shacks of rusted, salvaged tin.

RAIN WASHES OUT TIGER-INDIAN GAME

Detroit, Sept. 25—(AP)—Rain washed out today's important baseball game between the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians seting up a double header tomorrow that could decide the American League pennant.

If tomorrow's doubleheader is rained out the Tigers would automatically win the pennant even if they lost their last two games with the St. Louis Browns. In that case the final percentage would be Detroit .566 and Washington .565.

Big Al Benton was ready to go today against Cleveland and would presumably be called on again tomorrow.

The following is a portion of a letter, written to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Curtin, by their son, Richard, AMMP 1/c, NSNR, a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Cowpens.

"Well, Mom and Dad, another great event was entered in the pages of history, the day before yesterday, here at Tokyo Bay. You possibly heard a good deal about the signing of the surrender terms as it was being broadcasted from the Missouri. It all took place just about two thousand yards from our starboard side, as the Missouri is anchored there and the Iowa about a thousand yards on the other side. On our port side at thout five hundred yards are anchored the British Battlewagons, the King George II and the Duke of York. We saw a destroyer bring General MacArthur and Japanese officers over to the Missouri. At the same time overhead, we saw one of the greatest displays of air power ever witnessed by anyone. There were hundreds of B-29s, and most fifteen hundred carrier planes from the third fleet. It was really a great sight. I wish that you could have seen it. I am sure that the Japanese were thankful they were not loaded with bombs. At the same time that this was going on, I was headed toward the beach to the Yokosuka Naval Base with a new propellor, in one of our motor boats, which I was taking over to put on one of the fighter planes over there. I spent the day at the Yokosuka Naval Base, looking over the place and picked up a few souvenirs off of some of their aircraft engines. On the way over, we passed close to the battleship Nogota, which had been damaged by our planes. We also passed three of their large nubmarines which were taken over by American crews. At the naval base, I saw many one-man Jap submarines, suicide boats, quite a number of Jap planes of all types, and a number of other things. I also saw a few Japs there. I went through their barracks and buildings which are quite old and dilapidated. I ate dinner in the administration building, and in the next room from where General Sherman, Capt. Duckworth and a number of high ranking naval officers were eating. I ate K rations and they were eating warmed up C rations.

I have found that the Japanese people in most respects are from ten to fifteen years behind times, just as I had always thought. I was real glad to have had the opportunity to make the trip ashore. The plan for the CASU from our ships had been called off. I had the privilege and honor of changing the first propellor on an American aircraft on the Island of Japan! They took my picture while I was working at it, so I am going to try and get a couple prints of it. The Jap soldiers bowed and saluted every time they saw us. I enjoyed the trip a great deal.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pittock and son, Garry, motored to Erie, Saturday, where they spent the week end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Young. Mrs. W. H. Brandt accompanied them as far as Youngsville, where she visited her sister, Mrs. Haupin. On their return to Barnes Sunday afternoon, both Mrs. Brandt and Mrs. Haupin accompanied them from Youngsville.

Public Opinion Surveys Prove

Women Everywhere Prefer to

and here's why

More women cook with Gas than with any other fuel, in the United States. In certain areas, 99% of all housewives who have a choice of fuels prefer Gas. Why is Gas the favorite source of heat for cooking? Here are some of the reasons women give:

1. Gas is economical.

In many instances, for example, an average family can cook a month's meals with Gas, for about one dollar. What other service can match such economy?

2. Gas is more efficient.

Women find the modern Gas range cooks food faster, more easily, than any other type of cooking appliance. They get instant, maximum heat the minute the range is turned on, and with the insulated Gas range, the heat is confined to the food—kitchens are cooler.

3. Dependability

of Gas is appreciated by women. Gas is there when they want it—no embarrassing interruptions at critical moments during cooking. There are no expensive parts to burn out or wear out, on the Gas range.

4. Automatic control of Gas—providing just the temperature called for by the recipe. Gas is the most precisely controllable of all fuels, a fact that appeals to women with busy households. They can set the Gas range at the desired heat and go off to other tasks, knowing it will never vary.

5. Cleanliness

of Gas, that makes for cleaner cooking and ease in keeping the range bright and sparkling, is another reason women choose the Gas range over others.

6. Modernity

in the beautifully designed Gas ranges of today appeals to the American woman who always likes nice things. "Charming and efficient" sums up her judgment of the modern Gas kitchen.

You, too, will agree with all of these opinions when you have your New Freedom Gas Kitchen. To be sure you have it as early as possible, consult your Gas Appliance Dealer now, or your Gas Company.

Says Millions of People Only Half Alive

A man now in Los Angeles, but formerly a world-renowned traveler and geographer, honored by leading geographical societies, reveals the story of a remarkable method that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

This man tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields.

He claims that millions of people are only half alive, that the drive which gives vitality and strength to their efforts, and which makes life a joy and a triumph, is too often missing. He offers to send his amazing 9,000 word treatise—which reveals many startling results—to readers of this paper free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. T-569, Los Angeles 4, Calif.
